Teacher strike appears certain in TF Friday

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls teachers strike appears certain Friday unless surprise action is taken later today to resolve the impasse between teachers and the district III school board.

The Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA) today announced its intention to strike if a settlement has not been reached in contract negotiations by Friday morning.

Chief TFEA negotiator Bob Klus said today's announcement would serve as the 24-hour ultimatum previously promised the public if the TFEA intended to strike.

In the event of a strike, parents will be asked to keep students at home, he added.

Told of the TFEA action, School Board Chairman Howard Runk said he board "absolutely" would not change its plans to resume negotiations next Tuesday at the earliest.

"If they (TFEA) wish to take this action (strike) I guess that's what they'll have to do," Runk added.

He said the school board "will not be stampeded" into negotiation sessions.

The TFEA strike announcement followed what had been termed a "productive" informal meeting between the TFEA and the board Wednesday night.

But in a statement released by the TFEA President, L. Wayne Smith today, of the teacher's negotiating team said, "The decision to strike came after the TFEA negotiations committee was informed by the Superintendent (Carl Snow) that the board would not be able to meet again until next Tuesday."

"The teachers believe that the board is not taking the situation seriously when they allow negotiations to drag on for over five months and refuse to meet now when education is being hindered by the lack of a settlement," Smith's statement continued.

"Our negotiations team is willing to meet at any time and at any place for as long as necessary to achieve an agreement before school starts Friday, and we hope the board will meet with us as soon as possible."

TFEA negotiator Klus said a mass meeting of teachers has been set for 6:30 p.m. today to assess the situation.

He said the strike would not be called until tonight's meeting since a vote to strike had already been taken last Friday.

Klus reaffirmed that a strike will be called unless a contract settlement is reached or productive negotiations are underway.

"The action plan designed by the strategy team was that if full agreement had not occurred by Friday morning, we are going to follow through with the strike. We have some teachers out there that are upset and in a turmoil. We can't let it continue. It just has to be resolved, Klus added.

Klus said if negotiations resume prior to Friday morning teachers might re-assess the negotiations to see if progress was being made. But he added the strike will be called tomorrow unless a contract settlement is reached or productive negotiations are under way.

Asked what would happen if the school board used a strike to weed its faculty of unwanted personnel, Klus said any strike agreement reached with the board would have to include an amnesty clause for strikers.

Teachers plan to distribute leaflets door to door to the public this afternoon explaining the TFEA's position.

Klus said prior to Runk's statement he was not sure if the board was stalling but added the TFEA was not being treated seriously.

"We have not been able to get down to any serious negotiation for quite some time," he said.

He added the last real progress at a negotiation session was made July 14.

"We feel we and the board and the TFEA can get back together and would like to get back together," Klus said. He added, however, that the TFEA felt it had "a real good shot of support" for a teachers' strike, if necessary.

Tuesday to substitute teachers asking substitutes to support the TFEA if a strike is taken.

The letter assured substitutes they would be included in any amnesty agreement reached in a strike settlement.

Runk said the school board would not attempt to meet before Tuesday because its chief negotiator, Fred Decker, was out of town.

Decker, the board's attorney, was reportedly in Boise to present a brief before the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

Runk said to substitute another attorney for Decker "would not be wise."

He said previous reports that Decker would be sacrificed in return for the TFEA's dropping Un-Serv director Virginia Ross from its team were the result of a misunderstanding.

Runk said he couldn't say if the school district would attempt to keep schools open in the event of a strike.

The district has plans to handle a strike, Runk said, but he refused to divulge them.

If there is a strike, he added, the negotiations' pay rule will not be in effect.

He said the board would then release the teachers' salary and working conditions proposal and make "regular public statements" of its own.

Asked if the board would try to replace striking teachers, he said, "There are a number of options open to the school district."

Close scrape

TWIN FALLS — City police officers Budd Phillips and Dan Crahan met in a supermarket parking lot Wednesday.

But the social aspects of their encounter ended abruptly when their patrol cars brushed as they left, one in pursuit of a speeding auto on Second Avenue North.

Police reports said the vehicles were apparently too close together, with the rear bumper of one scraping the front fender of the other. Damage to one car was estimated at $240 and to the other at $100.

Feds sue TF over Rock Creek spill

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

BOISE — A complaint filed in the U.S. District Court here asks for up to $70,000 from the city of Twin Falls for violating federal pollution standards.

In a complaint filed Friday in U.S. District Court the Environmental Protection Agency charges the city with illegally discharging pollutants from its Rock Creek lift station on six days last May, July and August.

The complaint also alleges the city unlawfully discharged sand and silt mixed with sewage sludge from its sewage treatment center into the Snake River Aug. 26.

City Manager William Miller refused to comment on the complaint until he receives official notice of it. City Attorney Charles Brumbaugh also said he could not comment until the city received official notice.

"Until we've officially been served we haven't been sued," Brumbaugh said. He said he has received a "courtesy" copy of the complaint from the U.S. attorney's office in Boise.

Brumbaugh said he did not know when the city would be served. Assistant U.S. Attorney Dan Dennis, who is apparently handling the case for the U.S. could not be reached for comment.

The EPA is also asking the court for a preliminary injunction to force the city to stop dumping "all raw municipal and industrial" sewage from the lift station on the south edge of the city, according to the complaint.

The complaint asks for an award of up to $10,000 per day for each alleged violation of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. The complaint alleges the city made illegal discharges from the lift station on May 17, July 1, 6, 7 and 8, and Aug. 19.

The controversy began in May when a pump failed at the lift station, sending an estimated 500,000 gallons of raw waste per day into the creek.

In July, the EPA asked the U.S. attorney's office to investigate the possibility of taking civil action against the city. On August 10, Miller announced the city was no longer polluting the creek and pumps at the lift station had been fixed.

Meanwhile, EPA officials announced they were withholding about $300,000 in federal funds to be spent on the city's sewage treatment facility. The facility was under construction but 90 percent completed.

After the City Council approved a short-term fund transfer of up to $225,000 so the city could pay contractors who worked on the treatment center, the funds were transferred from several city funds to the city's sewer and treatment fund.

An EPA inspector checked new pumps at the lift station Aug. 9, and two days later EPA attorney Brent Gilman announced the agency would release 90 percent of the impounded funds to the city.

The city received the funds the following week.

No Ford talks

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock won't proffer his long 170,000 workers will be off the job in a billion-dollar contract dispute with the Ford Motor Co., but he's sure it will be more than the two weeks some observers forecast.

There were no negotiations scheduled today, the second full day of the nationwide walkout at 102 plants operated by Ford in 22 states.

Staudaher ready for work

TWIN FALLS — George Staudaher, relieved of his duties as school superintendent Tuesday, is apparently ready to return to his job.

Staudaher showed up for a meeting with school board members this morning and said he had a statement from his doctor indicating he was in good health and could return to work.

Staudaher refused to comment further until the meeting with the school board was concluded. That meeting continued behind closed doors for about two hours this morning with Staudaher's attorneys in attendance. The meeting, apparently was called to discuss Staudaher's future as superintendent — with School Board members declined to comment on what action is contemplated with the ex-superintendent.

The board Tuesday relied Staudaher "until further board action" following a hyperventilation attack which saw Staudaher taken by ambulance to the hospital's.

The board gave the "sudden illness" of the superintendent as its reason for appointing O'Leary Junior High principal Carl Snow as Acting Superintendent. While no official word was forthcoming this morning on what the board would do, board chairman Howard Runk did refer to "our new superintendent" in the context of Snow's having to prepare for either teacher negotiations or the expected teachers' strike tomorrow.

Staudaher's attorney Cyril Berry said this morning it was a function of the school superintendent to attend all board meetings and "the (Staudaher) is here," indicating that he would argue Staudaher was still superintendent.

Senate takes no action on Scott

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Ethics Committee has voted to take no action against Republican leader Hugh Scott and other senators who allegedly received illegal contributions from the Gulf Oil Corp. It was learned today.

With Senator Edward Brooke, R-Mass., casting the dissenting vote, the committee voted 5-1 Wednesday for a motion by Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., that no further action be taken against Scott.

Rhodesian chief to negotiate

UNTALI, Rhodesia (UPI) — Prime Minister Ian Smith today won the unanimous approval of his ruling Rhodesia Front party to negotiate Rhodesia's race problems with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

A party spokesman said the 600 delegates attending annual congress — which is closed to reporters — gave Smith a free hand on the eve of a meeting between Kissinger and South African Prime Minister John Vorster to find a peace formula for the white-ruled nations of southern Africa.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two cosmonauts carrying out the Soviet Union's first joint space experiment with East Germany activated scientific equipment aboard their Soyuz 22 spacecraft today and began photographing the earth.

"We're satisfied on the systems and they are working well," flight commander Col. Valery Bykovsky said in a television broadcast from the craft. "Our health is good."

UN Korean guards separated

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — The United Nations Command and North Korea separated their military guards in the truce village of Panmunjom today under new security arrangements designed to prevent confrontations in the tense demilitarized zone.

Security personnel at both sides were separated along the Military Demarcation Line that runs across the truce site. Markers have been put up to show the dividing line.

Senate approves big budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It wasn't easy for Sen. Henry Bellmon to stand up for a federal budget of $113.1 billion, with a deficit of $50.6 billion. The Senate voted 66 to 20 Wednesday to approve the figures for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, contained in a budget resolution worked out by a House-Senate conference committee.

The House was scheduled to pass the resolution today.

Bellmon, R-Okla., comes from a state whose constitution requires a balanced budget. Yet, as senior Republican on the Senate Budget Committee, he had helped draft the federal budget and was "one of its floor sponsors."

Bellmon went to some lengths to "demonstrate a special analysis by the Budget Committee staff on what would happen if the deficit were cut overnight to zero."

He presented the findings in a Senate speech, addressed specifically to those fiscally conservative members who felt they must oppose the resolution.

According to the study, one way to try to eliminate the deficit would be to raise $50.6 billion more in taxes during 1977. If the proportions remained the same, individual income taxes would rise 21 percent, corporate income taxes 10 percent, social insurance and other taxes 5 percent.

An individual with annual adjusted gross income between $10,000 and $15,000 would pay $20 more.

Even then, the study showed, the pesky deficit wouldn't be gone.

The higher tax rates would mean consumers and business would have less money to spend. The economy would tank. Unemployment would rise. Actual tax payments would go down and spending for unemployment compensation and welfare would go up.

Or, the analysis said, the government could try to cut $50.6 billion in spending.

But some $200 billion of its spending is in "entitlement" programs, such as Medicare, veterans benefits and Social Security, whose totals are set not so much by Washington as by how many people turn up to claim previously promised benefits.

Another $100 billion is for defense. If entitlements and defense were excluded, the rest of government would have to be cut 41 percent.

Health would drop from $7 billion to $4 billion, education and job programs from $17.6 billion to $10.6 billion.

According to both Bellmon and the committee staff, the only way to balance the budget is to improve the economy and reduce unemployment. They hope it can be done by around 1980.

Boat survivors refuse to talk

ASTORIA, Ore. (UPI) — The two survivors of the sinking of a charter fishing boat in which eight persons perished have refused to talk to a National Transportation Safety Board team investigating the accident, board member Philip Hogue said Wednesday.

Hogue, who is heading the investigation, and three other investigators arrived at Astoria early Wednesday to begin an inquiry into the sinking of the Pearl C, which occurred about 10 p.m. Monday while the charter boat was being towed across the Columbia River by a Coast Guard motor life boat.

Hogue said neither Robert Rowan, 36, nor Douglas Jewett, 26, both of Bellevue, Wash., would discuss the accident with the team.

"If these people don't cooperate that's the best way I know to get a formal hearing ordered by the board," Hogue said. "If we don't get cooperation I'll probably recommend the formal hearing and it probably will be held in Astoria. We need information while it's fresh."

If a formal hearing is called the board would have subpoena powers and witnesses who refused to respond could face contempt citations.

Jewett, hospitalized at Astoria for treatment of shock, has refused interviews with reporters. Rowan, who spent Tuesday at the Cape Disappointment Coast Guard Station across the Columbia River to advise searchers, has not been available.

Both men were picked up from the water minutes after the Pearl C sank.

A Coast Guard spokesman said no one aboard the Pearl C was wearing a life jacket.

The body of one of the missing, Bernice Winegar, 50, Woods Cross, Utah, was recovered Tuesday afternoon.

Still missing despite a continued search by the Coast Guard were the two other passengers.

Cutting had asked Coast Guard assistance Monday after the Pearl C developed engine trouble and the charter craft was placed in tow about 15 miles off shore.

Nurses meet tonight

TWIN FALLS — Nurses interested in becoming part of the team of the regional transport of infants in distress are being asked to attend a special meeting tonight.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital auditorium. It is sponsored by the local hospital to discuss the program of transporting services for such emergencies.

Dr. P.V. Miles, Twin Falls pediatrician, said the goal is to establish a physician-nurse team to transport the critically ill or premature infants from hospitals in other communities of Magic Valley to the neonatal intensive care center at Magic Valley Memorial.

Nurses from all of Magic Valley are urged to attend tonight's meeting. Training plans and handling procedures will be discussed.

Five more tremors hit northeast Italy

UDINE, Italy (UPI) — At least five more shocks of moderate intensity today rocked the Friuli region of northeastern Italy, adding to the problems of thousands forced into tent cities by major tremors Wednesday and a severe quake last May.

No injuries were reported from the latest shocks, but a heavy thunderstorm compounded the misery of the refugees living in tents or under cars.

Many were sheltered from the rain under covered passageways — ready to make a dash for the open if another earthquake strikes.

Almost 40 earth shocks jolted the region Wednesday, collapsing most of the structures damaged — but not destroyed — by a quake May 6 that killed almost 1,000 persons and left 79,000 homeless.

Police said at least seven persons were killed Wednesday and about 80 were injured. The tremor also forced another 20,000 persons to join those still living in muddy, four-month-old tent cities.

The new wave of shocks prompted many survivors of the May 6 quake to abandon plans to rebuild their homes, particularly with the approach of winter.

"The tendency to want to remain in their own communities has changed to a decision to abandon their home soils," Premier Giulio Andreotti said in Rome Wednesday night after talking with a parliamentary delegation that was in the region when the latest tremors hit.

Basques demand rights

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — In a move reflecting political unrest in the Basque region, the city of Pamplona has asked for an immediate widening of democratic rights and said King Juan Carlos should fire his government if it was not capable of doing this.

The demand was made in the form of a motion adopted by the Pamplona city council Wednesday night. Loudspeakers relayed the deliberations to thousands of persons jamming the city hall square.

The special session of the city government was convened to take a stand on the killing last week of a Basque demonstrator by police and other political violence that sparked a protest strike by 250,000 industrial workers.

Auto exhaust rule eased to '81; car makers smile

Chicago Daily News
America's car makers were cheered today by the passage of a bill that they say will let them stay in business beyond the 1977-model year.

The bill, cleared late Wednesday by a vote of 223 to 169 in the U.S. House, is an amendment to the Clean Air Act of 1970 that eases auto emissions standards through late 1981.

The industry said it does not have the technology to meet the present standards on the books that limit the amount of carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and oxides of nitrogen that a car's exhaust may emit. The auto makers said they could not sell any cars after the present 1977-model year if the original limits were kept on the books.

The bill that passed the House Wednesday was the most lenient toward the industry of several measures aimed at easing the 1970 emissions standards. It was backed by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., and had won the approval of the Environmental Protection Agency, the federal unit that polices auto emissions.

The Dingell bill was the object of an intensive lobbying and publicity campaign mounted by the auto industry. But the industry's victory while closer at hand today than ever before, was not assured.

First, the Dingell amendment has to clear the House with a wide variety of other controversial clean-air amendments dealing with stationary sources of air pollution. Most of those other measures also seek to soften the 1970 limits — and, as such, represent advantages to the industries they cover.

Second, the Dingell amendment has to be reconciled in congressional conference with a stricter measure, adopted recently by the Senate. While the Senate bill would ease the emissions standards in 1978 and 1979, it clamps down on auto emissions after that.

Complicating the question of auto emissions are new federal standards requiring increasing improvements year-by-year in auto fuel economy. In 1978, the first year of mandated fuel-economy standards, the industry will have to average 18 miles per gallon gasoline from the entire number of cars that it sells.

The fuel-economy standards rise to a fleet average of 27.5 m.p.g. by 1985, and the industry has argued that it cannot cut emissions and improve fuel economy at the same time.

DANIEL SCHORR
...remains mum

Newsman off hook in probe

Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Television newsman Daniel Schorr is off the hook.

The House Ethics Committee has indicated that the CBS reporter will be spared from any contempt-of-Congress action in the furor over a leaked intelligence report.

Schorr's firm but low-keyed refusal to disclose the source of the report drew praises even from congressmen who have condemned his role in relaying the document to the Village Voice, a New York weekly.

Buoyed by fresh backing from leading TV newscasters and some of the nation's most prominent writers, Schorr risked a prison term to remain silent about his source.

Schorr, 60, is now on paid leave from CBS News. Some observers said his committee testimony was so impressive that it may save his job with the network after the controversy dies down.

Six and probably seven members of the 12-man ethics panel indicated they opposed any effort to prosecute Schorr for declining to answer its questions.

His appearance apparently ended the six-month-old inquiry into publication of the report shortly after the House voted to keep it a secret for national security reasons.

New JFK, King death probes proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Rules Committee has proposed a special committee to begin new investigations into the assassinations of President Kennedy and Martin Luther King.

The committee Wednesday reversed an earlier action by approving a resolution asking the House to set up a panel with powers so broad it could investigate any death it chose. It was passed 9 to 4 and sent to the floor for final approval.

Rules Committee members who voted against the special committee last March said they had been convinced by new information that the Kennedy and King investigations should be reopened.

Since the last vote, intelligence committees have disclosed CIA involvement in attempted assassinations abroad and FBI harassment of King.

Medicaid abortions out

N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — A Senate-House conference committee voted Wednesday to outlaw in most instances abortions performed under the federal Medicaid program, but the committee specified certain cases in which such abortions would be permissible.

Meanwhile, the House voted to relax significantly the pollution standards to be required of automobile manufacturers over the next several years. That action reduced the possibility that a comprehensive law regulating air pollution would be enacted this year.

The conferees' agreement was an attempt to break a summer-long deadlock between the Senate and the House on the abortion question. The deadlock held up final passage of a $57 billion appropriation for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Department of Labor.

The House has repeatedly voted to prohibit the use of any federal money to pay for abortions. The Senate has been equally adamant in opposing such a measure.

There appeared to be a good chance that the Senate and the House would accept the compromise struck Wednesday by the conferees, but feelings on the issue have been so intense that approval is by no means certain.

The actual language of the compromise sentence reads as follows: "None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used to perform abortions except where carried to term."

That prohibition was softened, however, in the official report prepared by the conferees, which accompanies the legislation and which carries the force of law.

The report stated that abortions under Medicaid and other federal programs would be permissible if the other had kidney disease, multiple sclerosis and other diseases or if she were the victim of incest or rape. Further, the report declared the measure was not intended to prohibit the government from paying for contraceptive devices or drugs to prevent the implantation of the fertilized ovum.

The critical sentence of the report reads as follows: "It is the intention of the conferees to limit the financing of abortions under the Medicaid program to instances where the performance of an abortion is deemed by a physician to be of medical necessity and to prohibit payment for abortions as a method of family planning or for emotional or social convenience."

Worry not, aide says

Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — President Ford's chief economic adviser agrees that the regional concentration of recent unemployment has been more pronounced than in prior recessions.

But Alan Greenspan said the disparities are not serious enough to justify the specially targeted economic policies that some congressmen from Northeastern and Great Lakes states have in mind.

Higher energy prices can be expected to continue the movement of economic activity to the Sun Belt and Western states, where energy requirements are lower, he told a congressional subcommittee Wednesday.

Counties will run SIRAA vote Nov. 2

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer
BURLEY — The Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority has received permission from two counties to have its trustee election run by time counties.

Commissioners for both Cassia and Minidoka counties have agreed to run the trustee election in connection with the Nov. 2 general election.

The seat from Legislative District 26, which includes Cassia County and two precincts in Minidoka County, is up for election.

SIRAA Chairman George Forscher now represents the district, but announced last week that he will not run for re-election.

Ed Elliott has a petition out for the seat.

Deputy Cassia Clerk Tim Hurst sounded a reluctant note, warning that the move could "set a precedent for the county to handle every election in the county." He said one county has done that and was forced to hire a fulltime election staff.

Snow replied county handling was "exactly what the legislature had in mind."

Bedke said he saw no particular problem with Minidoka County handling the election in its two precincts.

Commissioners there agreed without much discussion.

The next general election, probably will entail an annexation vote for inclusion of Twin Falls and Blaine counties in the airport authority. Both counties have rejected membership in the authority.

Snow said elections would have to be held in those two counties to determine if they want to join the authority now. He said similar elections will be necessary in Cassia, Minidoka, Lincoln, Jerome and Gooding counties to determine if they want to accept the other two counties as members.

The fact that the airport election will have paper ballots raised a problem, since the computerized elections in both counties have eliminated the necessity of hand-counting ballots.

Voters on the airport authority election also do not need to be registered. They sign an elector's affidavit.

Snow proposed that the election judge handling the registration book could also take the elector oaths. That was satisfactory in Cassia County, but Minidoka County Clerk August Bedke said an extra person would be needed in one of the two precincts in his county.

2 Burley school sites up for sale

BURLEY — Two former school sites in Burley will be advertised again for sale.

Miller School and the old Burley Junior High School sites were advertised for bids to be opened last month. The district received no bids.

The Cassia County School Board voted Monday to advertise again for bids to be opened on Sept. 11. His motion came under advice of Herman Bedke, board attorney.

The board also set Oct. 9 for an auction of cars, desks and other obsolete school equipment. The auction will be held at 1 p.m. at the bus garage.

Superintendent of Schools Harold Blauer asked the board for direction on sale of the real property.

He said some people have contacted the district and shown an interest in purchase of Miller for the appraised value of $28,000. The junior high site has been appraised at more than twice that amount.

Bedke said the real property ought to be auctioned or rebid, even though there was no response the first time.

Dr. Paul Brown, trustee, remarked that perhaps the district should "sit on it" for a while.

The Miller property is platted as 160 foot lots, but board members voiced doubts that a house could feasibly be built in that narrow a lot.

Brown suggested the district should advertise beyond the legal public auction required by law because he felt it might attract more potential buyers.

He also suggested investigating the possibility of swapping the property for something in the southeast area. The southeastern property could be used for a school site in a growing area.

Audit reaffirms pipeline findings

WASHINGTON — An internal Interior Department audit recommends that despite federal employees overseeing the laying of the 800-mile trans-Alaskan pipeline issue immediate stop-work orders whenever they find trouble spots.

By inference, the study ordered by Undersecretary Kent Fritzell indicates that the 140 government pipeline checkers did not do a particularly good job, at least during the period between June 1975 and June 1976.

The audit charges that the pipeline builders — the Alyeska Pipeline Co., a consortium of eight major oil companies — were "slow" in improving and correcting faulty welds and X-rays, and that federal personnel "expressed a reluctance to use stop-work authority as aggressively" as they should have.

Generally, the audit reaffirms prior findings about the trouble-prone pipeline which, when completed, is expected to supply about 10 percent of U.S. oil needs. For example, the Interior auditors say that:

— Alyeska work has improved tremendously since July, after publicity that there was sloppiness in constructing the pipeline.

— Federal inspectors on the scene, like the pipeline builders, failed to keep good records or to see that faults were corrected.

The federal auditors recommended that work should be stopped only where pipeline malfunctions are classified as "critical" and where digging up the pipe, and destroying the fragile Alaska landscape, would be necessary.

The law under which the pipeline is being built specifically calls for federal inspectors to constantly check the work of the pipeline builders to ensure both that a good and safe pipeline is being built and that the Alaskan landscape is not scarred.

The report says that up to now records show that 61 stop-work orders have been issued, but it goes on to say that records indicate that "at least 14" and possibly "another 10" did not really amount to stop orders.

Snow—a good choice but a bad method

Carl Snow may well be the man who can douse the flames of dissension which threaten to engulf Twin Falls in a damaging teacher's strike.

Tuesday night the O'Leary Junior High School principal was named acting superintendent of schools in district 411.

The school board could not have chosen a much better man for the job.

Their new superintendent has a number of things going for him.

First, he is a man who has not waged a dozen wars with Twin Falls teachers. Instead, Snow is a relatively neutral figure to most teachers, and therefore will not spark the animosity between teachers and the school district central office which has plagued the district in the past.

Second, the new superintendent has quietly built a solid reputation as an administrator at O'Leary during his years as principal.

Teachers at O'Leary generally like Carl Snow. Right there he has gained a solid base of support among Twin Falls educators — a base which the district 411 administration office sorely needs.

When he was named acting superintendent Snow made a public comment which Twin Falls teachers should remember. "I'll try my best (to resolve teacher unrest)," he said. "I have no ill feelings for any of our teachers."

"I consider myself a teacher. I always have. We have a tremendous number of people who are tops in this district."

Snow's conciliatory approach to the current teacher-administration battle is a welcome relief.

Perhaps he can begin dismantling the misconception that the Twin Falls school administration is an enemy of Twin Falls teachers.

Snow appears to be a man who can work with teachers, not against them. He may be the man who can rebuild a feeling of trust and openness in the administration offices.

Unfortunately, the manner in which Snow assumed his new role as superintendent of schools serves as one more example of how foolishly the Twin Falls school board can act.

In the official statement explaining why superintendent George Staudaher was being relieved from his post, the board said only:

"The sudden illness of Superintendent Staudaher has left the (school district) administrative staff without direct leadership at a critical time."

From this statement teachers and others might think Staudaher was a dying man, incapable of pulling himself into work for one more day.

Instead, Staudaher's only announced illness is one case of hyperventilation. Hyperventilation is about as serious as a headache or a sliver in the finger.

Never fatal, and rarely serious enough to require medication more than a mild tranquilizer, the so-called "illness" which led to Staudaher's removal as superintendent is at best a trumped-up excuse.

Today, Staudaher's lawyers produced a note from his doctors saying the superintendent was in perfect health.

As a result, the Twin Falls school board is left in the embarrassing position of publicly having to back down from its original statement that Staudaher's illness was the reason for his dismissal.

It's an embarrassing, ridiculous situation.

Still, the board showed good judgment in selecting Carl Snow as a replacement for Staudaher.

But when will the board realize it is in their own best interest to tell it straight on those touchy issues which still threaten to seriously disrupt the operation of the Twin Falls schools?

Spanish-opposition skeptical of free election

By DAN KURZMAN
© Washington Star

MADRID — Spain's political opposition technically still largely illegal — remains skeptical about the chances for genuinely free elections in Spain despite the electoral program announced by Premier Adolfo Suarez.

Suarez this past weekend proposed setting up two parliamentary chambers — a lower house and a senate — both to be chosen by popular vote under a proportional system of representation, though King Juan Carlos could appoint one-fifth of the senate members. Either the lower house or the government could propose constitutional reform.

Oppositionists are generally satisfied with this system, but what they fear is that the elections, to be held next summer, will be run and controlled by the government, most of whose members, including Suarez, were active in the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Fascist National Movement.

"We also had elections under Franco, and there are elections in Russia, too," said one opposition leader. "But such elections are all show. They mean nothing. And that's the kind of elections we may have now, too. An impression will be given to the world that Spain is democratic, but in fact the fascists will simply be hiding behind a democratic facade."

The opposition, therefore, demands a different government that would include leading members of the newly emerged parties, which the opposition represents. Short of this, some want the present government to remain completely aloof from the electoral campaign and to create a new organization composed of all elists, and separatists are likely to be refused — none have done so yet.

"We shouldn't have to apply," said one opposition leader. "Our credentials and our philosophies should not have to be approved. We have the right simply to announce that we represent a party whether the government likes us or not."

This feeling that they are being dealt with as tolerated evils is behind much of the skepticism about Suarez's new program. Despite highly publicized meetings between the premier and opposition leaders, they say these meetings have had little substance. The leaders simply give their views and are politely ushered out.

"There have been no real negotiations, which is necessary to form a genuine democratic government," said one leader.

Nor are many oppositionists greatly impressed by Suarez's apparent success in persuading military leaders — who ultimately control the fate of this country — that they should support his program. For they suspect that Suarez subtly made the point to the militarists that, after all, those who had backed Franco will be running the elections.

This same argument, they suspect, has been made to the present Francoist Cortes (parliament), which must approve the program by a two-thirds vote. Suarez is thought to have exerted enormous pressure on parliament to back his proposals, pointing out the risks of opposing the army's will.

But even if the parliament does agree to accept the Suarez plan — or "commit suicide" as some oppositionists put it — the Francoist Cortes of the Realm could declare the program illegal. Such a decision would produce a stalemate that apparently could only be broken if the king decided to renge on his oath of loyalty to the Franco constitution and approve the program by decree.

"This, however, could be a dangerous step, even if he found a questionable loophole in the constitution to justify such action. For the army has said it would approve the program only if passed by constitutional means."

And the danger could be magnified by the possibility that Communist-led strikes and demonstrations expected this fall may provide last-ditch rightists with an excuse for fomenting violence that would give the army second thoughts about experimenting even with limited democracy.

Assuming that Suarez's program is implemented, oppositionists point out that the government would naturally come out ahead in the elections. It has, they say, all the power and money, especially in the provinces, where less-educated normally tend to support the regime in power.

Moreover, the new or formerly underground parties of the oppositionists and their policies are still virtually unknown in many parts of the country and they do not have anywhere near the campaign funds at the disposal of the government.

Thus, if elections are held under present conditions, they might still leave Spain in a greatly agitated state, especially since opposition leaders, including anti-Communists, say that one of their first parliamentary acts would be to legalize the Communist party as a matter of democratic principle. The army has made it clear that such action would not be acceptable.

Vacant report filed in Utah

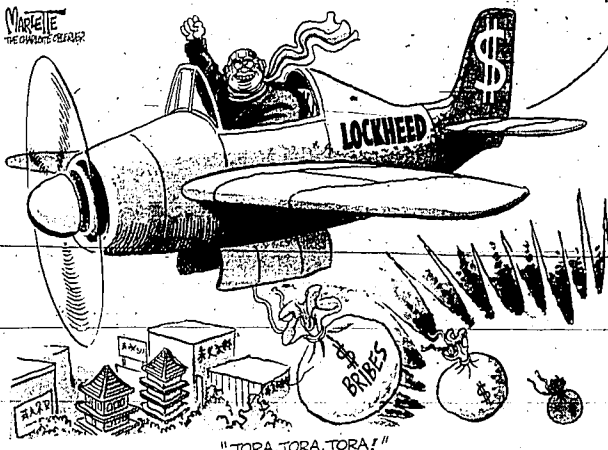

RANDOLPH, Utah (UPI) — Merrell Weston, a candidate for Rich County commissioner, has found a way to get around the mandatory filing of campaign finance records.

He doesn't have anything to report.

Weston wrote State Auditor David Monson:

"Since Rich County is very small, we don't campaign much around here. Since I was born and raised in Rich County and lived here all my life and since I'm known by everyone, I haven't spent any money for campaigning and haven't received anything."

"I hope this will be sufficient for your records."

Military or rightist coup in Japan possible

By ROBERT WHYMANT
© Chicago Daily News

TOKYO — A coup d'etat by extreme rightists or Japanese army elements in Asia's most stable democracy?

The idea may seem farfetched, but extremist action is not ruled out by intellectuals now weighing the possible dangers of the present political confusion continues.

Such is the disparate into which party politics have been cast by the prolonged feud within the government party, while affairs of state are for attention that the very stability of the parliamentary system in Japanese context is now being seriously questioned.

The 6-week-old crisis arises out of Prime Minister Takeo Miki's refusal to how to pressure to resign. Two-thirds of the Liberal Democratic party, and most of the cabinet, are engaged in cutthroat maneuvering to force Miki out of office before the forthcoming general election.

Miki is resisting strongly, against overwhelming odds, but with 40 years of political experience, the major newspapers and mass opinion firmly on his side.

The basic issue is shockingly clear. A band of 267 politicians, enough to fill a small town jail, are clamoring with a minimum regard for decency for Miki's removal, before he allows the public prosecutors to delve deeper into the Lockheed bribery investigation.

When the 367-man launch party first met two weeks ago, former lower house speaker Naka Funada spelled out the motive in easily decoded politicianese. Efforts to clear up the Lockheed scandal should be continued by Miki's successor.

Lesser, he said, but he "based on political consideration." And he went on: "No other advanced nation is so engrossed by the Lockheed investigation." This was not, as the innocent Japanese might presume, a compliment to Western justice.

It was an angry rebuke that Miki put prominently before party. Precisely what it is that Miki's colleagues have on their conscience was spelled out Sept. 4 by extreme rightwing millionaire Ryuzi Sasagawa, who wields great influence in political and business circles.

The anti-Miki drive is being prompted by those in the party who fear disclosure of the fact that they too received part of the Lockheed slash fund and that the investigation could spread and disclose kickbacks from Japan's economic aid to South Korea, the Philippines and Indonesia.

The Lockheed scandal merely involved bribes from a foreign company, he said. "But there are politicians who have earned money by taking economic assistance" funds "collected" as taxes. The people consider that some anti-Miki Liberal Democrats are stepping up their move for fear that this involvement might be disclosed.

The scramble to reject Miki, resembling nothing so much as an unguilted attempt to cover up the Lockheed and other potential scandals, automatically provoked public sympathy for the prime minister. This appearance in public are greeted with cries of "Stick it out!" from onlookers. But the danger of bucking vital party interests was shown vividly last week by the arrest of an ultra-rightist who had been striking the prime minister with a pistol with intent to kill.

A particularly nauseating press photo a few days ago showed the assembled anti-Miki conservatives greeting with warm applause the arrival of a colleague named in Lockheed documents as a bribe taker, but who was not arrested.

Today's heroes in the ruling party are corrupt colleagues who elude the grasp of justice. One letter writer to a newspaper lamented.

An angry magazine headline said "oust-Miki group has treated the public like fools" and "the monkeys on the Mountain are better at picking a new boss than the ruling party."

The corrupt nature of the LDP, and its persistent failure to reform, has been a target of criticism on many past occasions. Equally, the undesirability of eternal conservative government has been debated by the press in the course of the LDP's 21-year monopoly of power.

But rarely have such strictures been taken up so widely, or raised such fundamental questions about the viability in Japan of parliamentary democracy itself.

And seldom if ever has the spectre of the turbulent 1930s been evoked by serious commentators as a chilling parallel. In certain respects to the current situation. "It is a matter of grave concern that the parties... have begun to go the way of corruption. Just like their prewar counterparts," lamented one commentator in a major newspaper.

"The populace is disenchanted not only with the ruling Liberal Democratic party but also with all other existing parties."

Party politics were discredited in Japan in the 1930s by politicians' extravagance and corruption. Public confidence faded, creating a favorable climate for military intervention in government.

Haruo Fujii, an authority on defense matters, considers that in some vital respects the situation today resembles the eve of the abortive Feb. 25, 1936, coup by young army officers in Tokyo. Party politics again have fallen into disrepute because of politicians' corruption, with the nation's business relegated to second place.

A writer on security questions, Sonel Ichikawa, said in an interview last week that though rightist or military groups seem likely to imagine in an advanced industrialized country like Japan, the danger exists from groups like the Mishima Research Association, an illegal body within the Japanese self-defense forces named after the ultra-nationalist writer who committed suicide six years ago.

"This group is researching the possibility of a 'coup,' Ichikawa said. "Its members are widely spread in the First Airborne Regiment, the Narashino and Ichigaya, Nerima, Asagaya and Fujibases."

Few Japanese will take the more apocalyptic warnings seriously. But they dramatize the doubts being felt about the ruling party's competence to govern, about the fact that Japan is effectively a one-party system, and the growing discontent with an unhealthy political structure. Even if the current LDP strife is papered over speedily, the fundamental questions will remain.

Berry's World

Rights panel report dream world document

WASHINGTON — The recent report of the Civil Rights Commission on school desegregation is a dream world document if ever one came along.

It is the work of 16 staff members whose collective naïveté is positively awesome; the authors, doubtless rank among the dearest people ever born, but they are spiritually blind to those famous three monkeys who could see no evil, hear no evil, or speak no evil.

Any knowledgeable observer who has lived with actual inner-city slums once described as the flimsy, intractable realities of day-to-day desegregation will put the report aside with a weary shake of the head. It is as if the authors were speaking a foreign language or describing other schools in other countries.

Here and there, to be sure, the authors bravely acknowledge that desegregation of public schools has produced a little friction, a little resistance, some misguided opposition. A few unenlightened persons remain unconvinced that remedial measures are good things. Perfect acceptance has not been achieved.

But the overall impression of this 315-page report is that desegregation is absolutely ducky. Deep down in their hearts, the people love it. "There is one conclusion that stands out above all others: desegregation works." The general opposition that once prevailed has yielded to "widespread support." Desegregation has had such unusually good effects on education that the changes "benefit everyone." And so on.

JAMES J. KILPATRICK

That impression, alas, is markey. Yes, of course, in many communities in which minority children are a relatively small fraction of the school population, measures to increase the degree of racial integration have been well accepted. There is nothing novel, or interesting, or newsworthy in that proposition. But the controversy over "desegregation" is something else entirely.

What are we talking about, anyhow? In ordinary, common speech — the speech of those who live in the real world — desegregation is the process by which willful and deliberate school segregation is put to an end. In every significant case, the process is conducted according to court orders. There is nothing voluntary about it. A court finds that the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment has been violated, and the court proceeds to remedy the situation.

The authors of this report tell us, with a straight face, that "courts may not and do not require racial balance in an imposed desegregation plan." It is a flabbergasting misstatement of the law. The leading Charlotte-Mecklenburg case was predicated squarely upon the district court's desire to set a general 71.29 per cent ratio in the schools. True, this was not an inflexible requirement for each school, but the use of mathematical ratios is "within the equitable remedial discretion of the district court."

The report says that "courts have not forced students to ride buses." But for all practical purposes, that is precisely what the courts have done. Judges have ordered the purchase of buses; they have approved or disapproved bus routes; they have made racial-balance buses both explicit and implicit in their decrees.

And these coercive orders, manipulating the children because of the color of their skin, have aroused enormous resentment in communities with large minority populations. In such cities as Atlanta, "massive white flight" is a palpable fact of life. Boston's experience is identical. So is Richmond's. Nothing useful is gained by glossing over these things.

The kind of desegregation the country is concerned about as it bustles has made racial tensions worse. Desegregation has brought fearfully expensive in a dozen ways; it has demonstrably benefited "everyone," and in many cities it has resulted in a desegregation more severe than before.

The commission's report is an exercise in dreamy play-pretend; it is long on gentle fantasy, and it is woefully short on uncomfortable fact.

Ford's campaign kickoff brings fast Demo darts

By United Press International
President Ford's campaign kickoff brought Democratic criticism led by vice presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale's charges of bald presidential misrepresentation on issues of unemployment, home ownership and health care.

Making his first official campaign speech Wednesday night at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor — where he was graduated in the 1950s — Ford attacked Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter for being inconsistent on the issues.

"Ford said the United States 'has made an incredible comeback' in the two years he has held office. He unveiled a proposal 'to reduce down payments on lower and middle income housing by up to 50 per cent' and pledged 'accessible and affordable health care' for Americans.

"Trust is not being all things to all people, but being the same thing to all people," Ford said of Carter. "Trust is not having to guess what a candidate means. Trust is leveling with the people before the election about what we're going to do after the election."

Carter, campaigning just a few miles away in Dearborn, did not comment on the President's speech but criticized Ford's handling of the economy, saying "When Richard Nixon resigned, Gerald Ford inherited a difficult situation, but in a few short weeks he unerringly turned difficulty into disaster."

Mondale campaigned with Carter Wednesday at the biennial Farmfest in the vice presidential nominee's home state of Minnesota, where they discussed an apparent disagreement on recent Supreme Court decisions. The two men were scheduled to meet again tonight at an Italian-American dinner in Washington.

Asked about the Ford speech at an overnight stopover in Chicago, Mondale said "the main surprise is the baldness of the misrepresentation incorporated in that speech."

"Their record on employment is abominable with two and a half million more Americans out of work. Their record on home ownership is a disgrace. Their record on health care is absolutely indefensible," Mondale said.

Democratic members of Congress joined in the criticism. Senate Banking Committee Chairman William Proxmire charged the Republicans with increasing housing down payment requirements and said Ford's plan "is no more than what has been taken away over the past several years."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy accused Ford of taking a donothing approach to "the costly, shabby and ineffective system of private (health) insurance."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said Ford was playing "the old can game with the American people" by claiming he has to remain in the White House to make sure Congress won't go off "the deep end."

Carter discussed the Supreme Court question privately with Mondale after reasserting his belief the court is "moving in the right direction." In removing legal technicalities that have caused the release of obviously guilty persons.

The presidential nominee said Mondale "indicated he agreed with me."

On Tuesday, Mondale said he supported rulings made under the late Chief Justice Earl Warren and was not happy with decisions of the Warren E. Burger court.

Anti-bias rulings draw quick attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has unveiled a new plan which women's rights advocates claim will dismantle the mechanism to remedy sex and racial discrimination by companies with federal contracts.

The new regulations were announced Wednesday by Labor Department officials, who insisted they were trying to improve the government's lackluster enforcement of the antidiscrimination standard.

Since 1965, the department has been empowered to revoke federal contracts with any company that refuses to take steps to remedy employment discrimination. But that power has been used only 12 times.

The proposed new rules, affecting some 250,000 employers and 31 million workers in manufacturing alone, would streamline current procedures and focus enforcement on companies with large government contracts and big payrolls.

One such firm, Uniray Inc., currently risks losing millions of dollars in federal contracts under proceedings initiated last month by Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance. Uniray was charged with sex discrimination at a factory in Indiana.

Howe claims clearance

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Congressman Allan Howe kicked off his re-election campaign with a polygraph test he says proves he is innocent of sex soliciting charges, but Utah Democratic Party leaders weren't too impressed with his evidence.

No sooner had Howe released the lie detector results Wednesday than Utah Democratic National Com-

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese newspapers today called on all Communist party and military leaders to "resolutely uphold the unity and unification of the party" to avoid a deepened split following the death of Mao Tse-tung.

An editorial published jointly in the party newspaper People's Daily, the party theoretical journal Red Flag Magazine and the armed forces newspaper Liberation Army Daily also said there were "worthy successors" to Mao, but did not mention any names.

Tens of thousands of mourners continued streaming into the Great Hall of the People to view the body of Mao, who died last Thursday at the age of 82.

A mass funeral service will be held Saturday in Peking's huge Tien An Men Square.

"We should rally very closely around the party central committee to which the entire party is subordinate, resolutely uphold the unity and unification of the party and consolidate the great unity of the people—the editorial said.

The party publications already have acknowledged several times this year that there was a split in the top party hierarchy as a result of the power struggle Mao launched before he died.

That contest — which cost Teng Hsiao-ping his top government posts and elevated Hua Kuo-feng to premier — was still raging when Mao died. Analysts specializing in Chinese affairs said the newspaper comments reflected concern the power struggle might cause a more serious split in the leadership after the funeral services.

New nuke plan asked

© N.Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — Assailing tendencies toward "nuclear isolationism" in the United States a group of American business leaders called on the Ford administration to put together a new nuclear energy policy integrating foreign and domestic needs.

The appeal was made by the Committee for Economy development, a research organization comprising almost 200 corporate heads.

The committee also issued a 78-page statement entitled Nuclear Energy and National Security, detailing its findings.

Franklin A. Lindsay, chairman of Itek Corp. and head of the group's nuclear energy subcommittee, acknowledged that many of its recommendations coincide with current administration policies on nuclear matters.

For example, the report stresses the need for active U.S. diplomacy in coordinating nuclear export guidelines.

Voter 'spark' sought

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — Jeff Carter says father, Jimmy, hopes that his upcoming debates with President Ford will spark voter interest.

In Virginia to aid local Democratic candidates the 24-year-old Carter said, "We don't anticipate President Ford being a pushover. On the other hand, I think Dad can hold his own. But we really don't expect anybody to win or lose the debates."

"Just to get people interested in the campaign — that's what we hope to get out of it. To get out and vote," he said.

White's view

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Barbara M. White, a former U.S. ambassador in the United Nations, was inaugurated Wednesday as the 10th president of Mills College.

She told an audience of 1,400 persons that the liberation of women, as "full-fledged human beings," will be the most significant expansion of human rights in the latter part of the 20th century.

Susan to campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Susan Ford will campaign in Columbia, S.C., and New York city this week. For did, of course.

The White House said Wednesday that Susan, 19, will take part in the opening of the Ford-Dole headquarters Thursday in Columbia, S.C., and Saturday will participate in the 19th annual German-American parade in New York honoring Gen. Von Steuben — for his contributions during the American Revolutionary War.

The parade starts at noon at 63rd street and Fifth avenue. Susan will watch it from the reviewing stand on 63rd street.

Toom pick eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Malcolm Toom, ambassador to Israel and East European specialist, could be the next Moscow ambassador, administration sources say.

Toom, 60, would succeed Walter J. Stoessel, who was recently reassigned to Bonn, West Germany.

Toom has served twice in Moscow, and was U.S. ambassador in Prague and Belgrade.

Routine checkup

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Mrs. Ching Kai-shek, widow of the late president of the Republic of China on Taiwan, left Johns Hopkins Hospital Wednesday following more than a week of diagnostic tests.

The hospital's public relations office confirmed her stay, but would not reveal the nature of her medical examination. He said only that she had entered Johns Hopkins for "a routine checkup and diagnostic tests."

No funds for payroll

MONROE, La. (UPI) — Municipal workers will have to do without their pay checks this week. This northeastern Louisiana city of 56,000 is broke.

Mayor Jack Howard, faced with a $310,000 payroll due and only $136,000 in the bank, blamed the rising cost of natural gas for the city's financial predicament.

The city earns most of its gas company. Since the tremendous increase in the cost of natural gas the utilities commission no longer makes a profit and the city has lost a substantial portion of its income, Howard told employees who did not receive paychecks Wednesday.

The mayor scheduled meetings with city bankers to arrange for a line of credit to keep Monroe solvent until the arrival of a revenue sharing check and some sales tax revenues.

Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — Richard Speck, convicted of the 1966 murders of eight student nurses on the South Side, has been denied parole.

The 10-man Illinois Parole and Pardon Board, meeting at Stateville Penitentiary where Speck is serving eight consecutive sentences of 50 to 150 years, denied the request after a 45-minute interview with the 34-year-old Texan.

Speck declared his innocence to the three board members who questioned him. For the first time he said he had an alibi and denied police allegations that he "had attempted suicide the night he was arrested" two days after the July 14, 1966, murders.

Peter A. Kotlos, the board chairman, read Speck the reasons for the denial of parole.

"Due to the gravity of the offenses for which you were convicted and the magnitude of the sentences imposed by the court, it is the decision of the board that your release on parole would depreciate the seriousness of these offenses, in which eight young women were brutally murdered, and would not deter you and others from committing such heinous crimes."

"Any other action by the board would promote disrespect for the law," Speck, who will return to his janitorial duties in the prison orientation section, apparently had not expected a favorable decision on his first parole request since he was convicted on the murder charges in June, 1967.

Earlier, he told the parole board, "They'd hang you from the pole outside of Stateville" if parole was granted.

Speck denied binding and attempting to death the eight student nurses from Chicago Community Hospital.

LENA WILKENING
... weeps at hearing

"If I had enough money I'd be able to pay for and get a good defense," he told the board, claiming he "had a roomful of witnesses" who could prove he was in a tavern at the time of the slayings.

He said that at the time of the crime, "I was on a three-week drunk and poppin' residue (hallucinates)." He was near the nurses' house the night of the murders, he said, but he maintained his innocence.

Kotlos said Speck showed no sign of remorse.

Speck blamed extensive press coverage for pinning him with the guilt in the murders. He also, cited as especially prejudicial a statement by Orlando W. Wilson, the police commissioner. Wilson said publicly that Speck was the murderer before he had been apprehended.

Speck told the panel he intends to buy lawbooks in an effort to gain his release from prison. He will again be eligible for parole next September and every year thereafter.

He denied reports issued by police after his arrest that he slashed his arms with a broken wine bottle in a suicide attempt. Speck said he fell on Speck told the panel that he planned to live with his 72-year-old mother in Dallas if paroled. He said his relatives visit him regularly and send him money.

A Peoria jury convicted Speck of murder in the slayings and on June 15, 1967, he was sentenced to be electrocuted.

A U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1972 set aside that penalty, and he was resentenced on Nov. 22, 1972.

Living cost pay hike set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most federal government employees will get a 5 per cent cost of living pay raise Oct. 1 under terms of a proposed congressional compromise.

But Congress decided to deny the increase to itself, federal judges and top-level bureaucrats.

Approving a compromise $1 billion legislative appropriations bill, members of a House-Senate conference committee also agreed to accept a Senate proposal for repeal of the automatic 1 per cent increase added to cost-of-living raises for military and civil service retirement pensions.

This so-called 1 per cent "kicker" enacted by Congress in 1969 has resulted in pensions being raised over the past seven years by 71 per cent, while the Consumer Price Index has increased 56 per cent, resulting in a 15 per cent overpayment.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor I'll call Sue who has done more for me than my own sister has. Sue's kids are the ages of mine, so she keeps my kids so I can go on the road with my husband for a few days. She also chauffeurs my kids around with her own so I won't have to. Sue has even done my marketing for me.

She's a very handy friend to have and I appreciate her, but here's the problem:

She runs in and out of my house just like it's her own. If she sees that I have company, she comes right over and joins us. She asks the most personal questions and I have no privacy whatsoever. She's a good friend, but she's a terrible pest. How can I keep her from coming over whenever she feels like it? I don't want to end our friendship because she's been a good friend, but enough is enough.

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING

'Friendly' situation

DEAR TOO MUCH: By accepting favors from Sue, you've become obligated to her. If you want your privacy, you will have to quit accepting favors from her. If you can't do that, face it: You've made a deal and you're stuck with it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and have recently taken an office job where other women are employed. This isn't the first office job I've held, but it's the first place I've been asked questions I would rather not answer.

With regard to something I am wearing: "Is it new? Where did you get it? Was it expensive?"

Maybe I'm wrong, but I think these questions are personal, and I don't know how to get out of answering without appearing to be stuck-up and unfriendly.

Can you (or anybody else) help me?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: It's your right to refuse to answer questions you regard as being too personal. And there's nothing wrong with saying, "I'd rather not answer that."

DEAR ABBY: My sister is 18 and her husband is 19. They've been married for two years and have two children. The problem is her housekeeping. Her house is so filthy it smells. She wasn't raised that way. My mother, my two sisters and I keep clean houses and we can't understand what's wrong with that girl. She doesn't keep herself clean, either. In fact she smells of B.O. We don't know how her husband can stand to be near her.

We have all hinted to her about her house and person, but when we do, she gets mad. We think she needs to be told so she can improve, but we don't know who should tell her.

My husband says I should stay out of it, but I will tell her if you think I should. Please help me decide.

OLDER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Your husband is right. If she gets mad when you're hinted, mind your own business. If her husband doesn't object, I see no need for anyone to tell her anything.

Albion awaits campus ruling

By SHANE O'NEILL
Times-News writer

ALBION—The City of Albion owns a full college campus and doesn't know what to do with it.

A lawsuit involving the campus of the former Albion State Normal School was moved from the court calendar in Hurley this week.

Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood took the case off the calendar for Tuesday to allow time for a judicial conference and a murder case he had to fit into his court schedule.

The lawsuit was brought by the City of Albion in an attempt to break a 99-year lease given to Douglas Teeplees and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Teeplees.

Judge Bellwood said the case will be set for trial at a later date.

The Teeplees had filed a counter-claim for $450,000 in damages on the grounds that the city prevented them from operating the campus as the Oregon Trail Festival of Arts.

The Teeplees vacated the Albion campus in mid-summer of 1975 after a court order prevented them from continuing work on improvements at the campus.

The city has obtained an opinion from the state attorney general's office that it can maintain the property as its own and dispose of it, barring any court order.

The Albion State Normal School was established by the second state legislature in 1893. It closed in 1951 when the legislature refused to appropriate money for operation of the school.

The Albion campus was closed for seven years; then reopened in 1958 as the Magic Valley Christian College.

The college operated 11 years before closing its doors. The state sold the facilities to the City of Albion in 1970.

The city gave the Teeplees a 99-year lease in early 1971 at $100 per year on the condition that the property be used for "educational purposes."

The Teeplees held classes on the campus for three years. Chief among them was the Harmony Workshop cultural education course conducted daily by Max Hansen for more than a year.

A resident artist conducted art classes at the school for two years. Pottery and ceramics classes also were held.

Meanwhile, the citizens of Albion became more and more dissatisfied with the operation of the campus, many of them believing the Teeplees operated in accordance with the educational condition in the lease and was not being properly maintained and restored.

The city finally filed suit to abrogate the lease in early 1975. It also made an agreement for sale of the property to an Allumperie, N.M. investor, but no further action has been taken by the potential developer.

Although both the State Normal School and the Christian College have been closed for a long time, a group of graduates has formed the Albion State Normal/Southern Idaho Christian Alumni Association, which holds an annual homecoming.

The homecoming, which draws about 200 to 300 alumni each year, is the trigger for the memories of former students. But the campus itself and the buildings on it have been deteriorating for the past 10 years.

Windows are broken. Books, beds, chairs and other articles once used in the school are scattered.

Kitchen equipment stands idle, and the campus is like a ghost town except for the power plant, which is maintained by the city.

Began as a two-year teacher college, the school remained that for more than 50 years. In 1916, it became the Southern Idaho College of Education, a four-year institution. Five years later, it closed.

Among the prominent alumni of the college are U.S. Commissioner of Education Ted Bell and former Idaho State Superintendent of Schools D.F. Engelking. The oldest alumnus is 1901 graduate Mrs. John Hayes, Twin Falls.

The Albion campus has always been a private property. The state owned it for 70 years and was frequently reluctant to finance the school.

It began with a single teacher and a nure concept with classes being held in the old Methodist Church downtown. The church now has become the Albion Grange Hall.

The original land for the campus was donated in 1893 by J.E. Miller and the college moved there with a faculty of three.

The faculty grew to eight in the next 10 years, and Albion citizens donated a second five acres, as the college continued to construct buildings to house its growing enrollment.

The campus had grown to 41 acres by 1914, when it completed its 50th year. Seven years later, the legislature decided against funding the continuation of the Albion school and his sister institution at Legiston.

Today, empty barracks and halls stand on the vast lawns at Albion's entrance. They await the court decision that could give the City of Albion free control of their destiny.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb, I was enlightened by your column on "Porous bones in women."

I suffer from osteoporosis of the spine and am interested in learning what proportions of sodium fluoride, calcium and vitamin D I should take daily. Would it be possible for you to inform me what you consider a reasonable dosage? I am 61 years old and am recuperating from a bad attack of sciatica.

I have never taken calcium and do not enjoy milk. I plan to start taking calcium tablets immediately. Lately I have been reading articles on nutrition and realize as a nation we do not pay enough attention to our diets.

Dear Reader, You should see your doctor about what you should take for your own individual case. There is a lot to the proper management of a person with dissolving bones (osteoporosis). The Mayo Clinic reported good success using daily a combination of 50 milligrams of sodium fluoride and 600 to 1000 milligrams of calcium carbonate or gluconate supplement plus 50,000 units of vitamin D twice a week. This was reported in Postgraduate Medicine, October, 1972, and Modern Medicine, March 5, 1973, in case your doctor is interested in my source for a reference.

And, I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-10, Osteoporosis, to give you more information on this common problem. Others who want this issue can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Osteoporosis problems

Dear Dr. Lamb, Just what is a varicose vein and is it true that jogging causes this?

Dear Reader,

Sorry, you are getting the benefits of an article from Playboy magazine that I disagree with entirely.

Varicose veins are dilated veins, usually of the legs commonly seen in women after pregnancy. Normally there are small valves inside the leg veins to make the venous blood all flow one way, up toward the heart. When the veins dilate and overstretch the valves don't work. The veins become nonfunctioning sacks, like overstretched balloons, and when a person is on his feet they are full of stagnant blood.

The veins in the outside of the leg normally drain directly into the deep veins of the leg. When one stands still there is a lot of pressure from the upright column of blood in the legs. The pressure can increase the swelling of the leg veins.

But as soon as you take one step the contracting muscles in the legs squeeze down on the deep veins and milk the blood toward the heart. The net result is that the pressure inside the veins falls dramatically with walking and hence with jogging.

Walking and jogging then, as opposed to standing still, decreases the pressure inside the veins of the legs and helps to protect against varicose veins rather than causing them. The writer of the Playboy article apparently did not consider the important difference of muscular contraction with jogging as opposed to standing still. So you and many others have been needlessly alarmed.

If you want to use suit-preference signals, do not let them interfere with your regular signals to show count or desire to have your partner continue the suit he has just led.

North and South reach four hearts, after North responded with a Stayman two-club bid to his partner's notrump. It would have been better for North to forget Stayman and go right to the notrump game, but he did bid two clubs and get in the 4-4 heart fit. West opened the king of diamonds and East dropped the queen. This is a well-known signal designed to show the queen and jack and give partner a chance to underlead his ace at trick two if he wishes.

West, one of those suit-preference addicts, took the play as a request to lead a spade. He did just that and declared with no trouble making five odd.

Actually, the hand should have been beaten. West would continue with the ace and another diamond. East would overtake with the jack. If he led a fourth diamond West would be able to ruff with the 10 of hearts to establish his partner's jack as a sure trump trick.

Does it make any difference if you are playing limit raises? The correct bid in any system is four spades. If your partner can't make it the chances are that the opponents could make five hearts. If four spades can make, the chances are that the opponents have a good save.

Bond issue explained

TWIN FALLS — Bob King, a member of the School bond citizens committee, was featured speaker at the Twin Falls Altrusa Club meeting Tuesday at the Colonial House.

King gave the totals on the poll conducted recently gathering views on replacement of Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School and stressed the importance of needing a new school in Twin Falls.

Committee reports were given by Jude Brown, vocational service; Adele Stoddard, international relations; Adda Mae Bell, Altrusa information; membership, Elaine Nesbitt, and Virginia Lee, finance.

Club members voted to sponsor one of the series of film strips at the Twin Falls Public Library on Wednesday nights.

It was announced Marian Hamilton, governor District No. 12, will make her official visit to the Twin Falls Club Oct. 13. Plans were made for the area 4 workshop set Oct. 2 and 3 in Walla Walla, Wash., with several members planning to attend.

The Sept. 23 meeting is at the home of Fayesther Waegelin, with members of the Altrusa Information committee in charge of the program.

New members welcomed

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Business and Professional Women welcomed two new members at their first meeting of the fall season.

New members are Esther Denny and Juanita Slovall.

A report on the state convention was given by Ina Knox and members discussed plans for the October district convention to be held in Twin Falls.

Friendship Circle meets

TWIN FALLS — The Friendship Circle of the Women of the Moose met Monday evening at the home of Jackie Miller.

Roll was answered by "Old Dolls From Years Past." It was decided Ruby Murphy will make the friendship book this year and keep all publicity for the year.

It was announced the circle will make the favors for the state convention to be held in Twin Falls in November.

The thought for the day was given by Rose Mattice and the white elephant was won by Kathryn Long.

OES officials honored

TWIN FALLS — Grace Johnson, past grand matron, and William Skinner, past grand patron, were given special honor during the Chapter No. 29, Order of Eastern Star, meeting Tuesday at the Masonic Temple.

Others honored were Hope Clemens, Jane Benfer and Erna McFarland, past grand matrons, and William Clark and Len Clayton, past grand patrons.

Mrs. Earl Goodson, worthy matron, was in charge of the business session.

A new state flag, purchased recently by the chapter, was dedicated in a program given by Maude Shotwell.

A potluck dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 28 for members and their families. Members are asked to bring a covered dish and their own table service. Special music in honor of Mrs. Johnson was sung by Willa Rider.

Serving committee members were Fran and Willa Rider, Bob and Marietta James, Dick and Maxine Machamer, Edith Jones and Pam Reardon.

Woodworking class set

TWIN FALLS — An adult woodworking class will be offered at Twin Falls High School, beginning Sept. 23rd, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The class will be conducted by Wally Ogden. The fee will be $4 and materials will be extra.

The fee is payable at the first class session and space in the class is available on a first-come first-served basis.

The class will run for 11 consecutive Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Interested woodworkers should bring a picture or drawing of a wooden article they would like to make to the first class session.

8 MV seniors semifinalists in National Merit program

MAGIC VALLEY — Eight area high school seniors are among approximately 15,000 students who have been named semifinalists in the 1977 National Merit Scholarship program.

Named from Twin Falls High School were Susan Argyle, John Forbes, Thomas Kennedy and David C. Moss. Jeanelle Barnett and Nancy Reinecke from Minidoka County High School were named. Also among the semifinalists are Jerome Ball, Buhl Senior High, and Keith Harrell, Jerome High School.

These academically talented students will have an opportunity to continue in the competition for about 3,850 Merit Scholarships to be awarded next spring.

To advance to finalist standing, semifinalists must meet requirements that include being fully endorsed and recommended for scholarship consideration by their secondary school principals, presenting school records that substantiate high academic standing and completing the high qualifying test scores with equivalent scores on a second examination.

Over 90 per cent of the semifinalists are expected to qualify as finalists and to receive certificates of merit next February.

All winners of Merit Scholarships will be chosen from the exceptionally able group of Finalists.

Over 1 million students from more than 17,000 high schools entered the 1977 Merit program by taking the 1975 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). Semifinalists are the highest-scoring students in each state; the number named in a state is proportional to that state's percentage of the nation's total graduating senior class.

The semifinalists, most of whom will complete high school and enter college in 1977, represent the top half of one percent of the nation's most academically talented young people.

Semifinalists who attain finalist status will compete for at least 1,000 National Merit $1000 Scholarships. Each Finalist will compete with all other finalists in a particular state for the scholarships, which are allocated on a state representative basis (the procedure used to name semifinalists). The National Merit $1000 Scholarships are one-time, nonrenewable awards supported by grants to NMSC from business and industrial sponsors. A selection committee of professionals in college admissions and counseling is convened annually to select the 1,000 winners.

Finalists who meet the qualifications established by grantors will also be considered for about 2,850 four-year Merit Scholarships to be offered in 1977. About 1,350 of these awards will be supported by grants to the program from corporations, foundations, unions, and professional associations; some 1,500 four-year Merit Scholarships will be sponsored by U.S. colleges and universities.

Depending upon the minimum and maximum values established by the grantor, the winner of a renewable Merit Scholarship may receive up to $1,500 (or more) during each of the four college undergraduate years.

The 1977 competition is the twenty-second conducted by NMSC. In the twenty-one annual Merit programs completed between 1956 and 1976, over 45,800 students have won Merit Scholarships valued at more than $124 million.

Alfalfa windrower makes waves

AN alfalfa windrower sails through and seems to make waves in a sea of hay in this scene near the intersection of Highways 25 and 50 west of Eden. This operation marks the third cutting of hay in the area. When the weather allows, harvesting operations are in full swing throughout the Magic Valley. Thunderstorms and an early, spotty frost have hampered a few farmers in the completion of their summer's work.

Bed bugs, others, moving inside

By KEN HODGE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Have you noticed more insects than usual in your home lately? According to Extension Entomologist Robert Stoltz, Twin Falls, the bugs are now taking shelter for the winter and you have several courses of action to rid yourself of them.

"This time of year, you will frequently encounter different insects or spiders moving into your house," Stoltz said. "In particular, you will notice clover mites, box elder bugs, earwigs and various spiders."

"They are trying to find warm spots for the winter," Stoltz explained. "They will move out again in the spring."

In case you don't want any extra boarders this winter, Stoltz says there are several things you can do to evict the unwanted tenants.

"This is the time of year that most people will be thinking about caulking and insulating their homes," Stoltz predicted. "Caulking is also good for keeping insects out."

Sealing up cracks, shutting windows and tightening up around doors are not the only way to keep out undesirable visitors.

One other more drastic course of action is available to the homeowner who doesn't want small creepy things in his corners or under his bed.

Spraying or dusting for the insect pests is very effective, according to Stoltz. — If the spraying is properly done.

Herpes disease increase 'shocking'

By BOB ZUCKERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The rise in herpes, an infection similar to venereal disease, but having no known cure, has increased dramatically in Idaho this year, state health officer John T. Ashley said Wednesday.

Speaking at a board meeting of the South Central Health District here, Ashley said, "While we are only seeing a slight increase in gonorrhea, the increase is dramatic in syphilis and shocking in herpes."

Doctors have developed treatment for the more common venereal diseases, syphilis and gonorrhea, but no "satisfactory treatment" exists to combat herpes, Ashley said.

Because of the increase in herpes, the state department is considering substituting a herpes test for some other test completed during state health examinations, according to Ashley.

State health officials said today 28 cases of syphilis have been reported state-wide this year while only 12 cases were reported by September last year. About 1,460 cases of gonorrhea have been reported state-wide this year while about 1,340 cases were reported by September last year, the officials said.

Because reporting of herpes is not required by the state, no official figures are available.

However, Everett Perry, epidemiologist for the South Central Health District, which includes all eight Magic Valley counties, said today his office has seen about six herpes cases, including only one infected woman, this year.

This would not include cases seen by Magic Valley private physicians, he said.

When asked what district officials did when they discovered a herpes infection, Perry said, "Nothing, because there was nothing we could do."

Like syphilis, herpes causes open sores on a victim's body, according to the epidemiologist. Herpes is most commonly associated with a minor itching or a rash of open sores in the genital area.

The sores can disappear and reappear at any time, Perry said. The sores may appear four or five times during the first year after it is contracted, and three or four times per year thereafter.

Another problem of the disease is it is not 100 per cent detectable, according to Perry. He said the disease is most easily traceable when the disease is active or sores exist on a person's body.

However, he said sometimes persons may delay seeing a physician until after the sores are gone. Therefore, as with venereal diseases, persons, particularly women, may be carrying the disease and not know it.

Herpes may also cause complications in births, possibly causing disease infection, birth defects and brain damage to the newborn, Perry said.

During his 20-minute talk before the board, Ashley said herpes has not been classified as a venereal disease, a disease which can only be transmitted during sexual contact. But he said proof that it is only transmittable during sexual contact "should" be available shortly.

Though herpes has existed "for ages," the disease has only recently come under study, Ashley said.

The board and Ashley also discussed ways of combating venereal diseases and herpes. Dr. Wayne Cartle, board member, called for greater emphasis on health education.

While agreeing education is important, Ashley said health officials must also spend time treating the diseases after they break out.

MTA buys "The Ranch"

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

ELKHORN — Mortgage Trust of America (MTA) bought back its interest in The Ranch at Sun Valley for over $4 million at a Monday morning trustee sale.

The 100-unit condominium development of pre-fabricated modules sits at the south end of Elkhorn Village. It was a sales failure since the first stages of the project.

Lewis Douglas Development Corp. (LDDC), California, had sold only four of the 100 units when declared in default on mortgage payments to MTA in April this year.

Monday, MTA bid $3.8 million for the realty, $200,000 for the furniture packages and $9,878.80 for costs. The total bid was $4,099,878.80.

Lyman Lokken, MTA representative, has not commented what will become of The Ranch. A Sun Valley Co. official said today negotiations are proceeding between MTA and the resort company on future management plans for it.

Sun Valley Co. managed the development this summer after the mortgage default.

According to a notice of default in April, LDDC owed MTA over $5.5 million dollars in principal and interest.

One realtor in the area connected with the project suggested in April the price of the condominiums was too high to begin with, resulting in the sales lag.

In addition, the realtor said the "secondary sales location" was too great. The John Gardner Tennis Program did continue this summer, but no one is quite sure what the situation will be next year.

Idaho Press Club votes $150 to T-N

BOISE — Saying an order directing the Times-News to reveal confidential sources of information was a "serious infringement" on the right of free speech, the Idaho Press Club Wednesday voted to send $150 to the Twin Falls newspaper as a symbolic show of support in the paper's refusal to reveal confidential sources.

Two Times-News employees, managing editor Richard High and reporter Bill Lazarus were ordered last week to reveal all confidential sources they had in producing a series of stories on the Sierra Life Insurance Co. of Twin Falls.

Fifth District Judge Theron Ward signed the order which says the two journalists must reveal the names of sources who gave even unpublished information to the newspaper.

Mindy Cameron, president of the Idaho Press Club and public affairs producer for station KATV in Boise, said the $150 donation to the Times-News defense was a unanimous decision of the press club.

"They felt Judge Ward's order had gone farther than any other case in Idaho in requiring a newspaper to divulge a tipster," Cameron said.

Richard Charnock, Idaho Bureau Chief for United Press International, said the press club support of the Times-News was necessary because "if they can get away with this your free press will be down the tube."

In addition to sending the Times-News $150, the press club voted to establish a Libel Defense Committee, chaired by Dwight Jensen.

The new committee will be used to investigate libel charges which are brought against Idaho newsmen.

Press club president Cameron said the club was concerned Judge Ward's order might put a serious dent in the freedom of the Idaho news media.

She said the judge's ruling was more serious than any other ruling in Idaho concerning freedom of the press because the ruling orders the reporters to reveal the names of tipsters who were never named as sources for any stories in the newspaper.

Planning draft due in October

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Joint Planning Council announced Wednesday the first draft of the county's comprehensive land use plan should be ready in mid-October.

The Joint Planning Council said Dennis Petrequin, one of the civil engineers and planners from the Oregon firm Stevens-Thompson & Runyon Inc., which is drafting the plan, indicated he will have the first drafts prepared in about one month.

The Joint Planning Council plans to schedule four public hearings throughout the county so the public at large will have a chance to ask questions and discuss the Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

The public hearings, which have not been definitely scheduled yet, will each be held in a different region of the county. The regions will include: Twin Falls; Kimberly; Hansen and Murtaugh; Bluff and Castleford; Hollister and Ellettsburg.

Idahoans fear 'political apathy'

By CHRISTOPHER BOGAN
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — A political apathy has seized much of the Idaho electorate, according to former Republican congressional candidates Glen Wegner and George Forschler. Wegner and Forschler, both unsuccessful candidates for the Republican nomination for Idaho's second district in this year's primary, say they are disturbed by the lack of concern and involvement in the political process in Idaho and the country.

But both men say they will continue to work to support that process, even though they have left the public domain and returned to their respective private lives.

"The voters said they (the issues) aren't important," Wegner remarked. "And we also know the other things they said. Twenty-five per cent of them turned out to vote, and many didn't vote at all. I'm not one of those 75 per cent who refuse to participate. I've participated—as a candidate and I've always participated as a citizen too."

Forschler agrees. "The thing that I find disturbing to me is that I think we may find the lowest turnout ever from voters in November," Forschler said. "It may set a record for sometime. The lack of interest from Republican and Democratic voters is a determining factor."

Both men say they are supporting the Republican party, but each is doing it to different degrees.

Forschler says he has been most active in working for the Republicans in the Presidential campaign.

"I am doing all I can right now to get Ford elected, and also I am working with the state Republican party on a gala, statewide event in Boise on Oct. 20," Forschler said.

Although he has not been approached by any national candidates in Idaho's second district, Forschler says he will support the incumbent George Hansen in the second district congressional race.

"I will support Mr. Hansen," Forschler said. "As you may recall, I called for Republican unity at the first speech I gave in June, and I have addressed myself to that issue. It is important that we have Republican unity and I will do just as I have stated."

Wegner, who has returned to his medical and law practice, also says he intends to support the Republican Party, but he is being more cautious in his position. He will not publicly support either of the candidates because he feels they have not yet addressed the important issues.

"My intent is to support the Republican ticket," Wegner said, "but here we are in September, and these things don't really heat up until October. They've both been very quiet."

"I'm saying I'm an individual and you can work hard for a party purpose, and for a party philosophy," Wegner continued, "but there can always be something offensive."

Wegner says each voter should look carefully at the candidates and their platforms and make up his or her own mind in November. He does not wish to influence other people's choices.

"I never want a Wegner machine," he said. "What I want is all the people who participated in my campaign to participate in someone else's campaign. I don't want them to take my lead. They are thinking people. I want them to use that same brain to weigh the choices between the two candidates. But I don't want to make the decision for them."

Markets

Stocks at midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prides opened higher Thursday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 0.33 to 979.84 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 185 to 119, among the 53 issues crossing the tape.

Analysts said some investors were encouraged by Ford administration statements that the economy was regaining the steam it lost the couple of months. But were disturbed by layoffs in the steel and other industries.

Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, told a Joint Economic subcommittee yesterday the "most recent evidence suggests another acceleration in the pace of the recovery is probably now being underway." James F. Callaghan, director of the Office of Management and Business, said the economy is "on a roll."

However, steel industry layoffs, resulting from lagging demand, have bothered investors. A lengthy auto strike added to industry woes.

Hospital trustee selected

RUPERT — A man from the West End has been appointed to the Minidoka Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees.

County commissioners are seeking a candidate from Heyburn or the south part of the county.

Attention to the area of residence came after Commissioner Chairman Lyle Barton called for an appointee from the western part of the county.

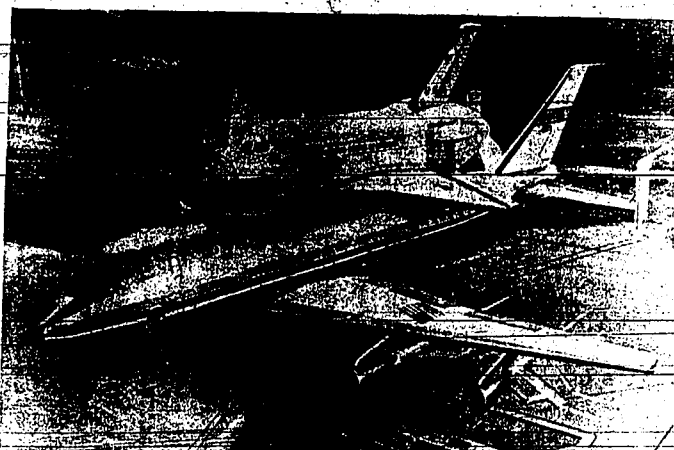

"If we can't get someone from Paul or Heyburn or somewhere on the West End," he said, "we'd just better start calling it Rupert General Hospital."

Commissioner Elmer Ketterling admitted that most of the members of the hospital board are from Rupert but added the commissioners have had West End appointees that would only stay on the board three months.

"We need representation from the county," Barton stated. Ketterling replied, "We need people who will work on it."

The commissioners named Dale Leslie, who lives west of Paul, to replace Dick Garvin and serve until June, 1978. It also reappointed Clark Cameron and Clarence Bellem to serve until June, 1979.

They delayed replacing William Thomas, who resigned early this summer, while they seek a candidate from the Heyburn area. Fred Dayley was appointed to serve out the remainder of Dan Schab's term as recreation representative on the Minidoka County Planning Commission will expire next April.

Palmer Baxter was appointed to replace Leon Blacker on the planning commission. Blacker resigned when he received a job transfer. He headed industry and his term runs until April, 1979.

Board balks on program

BURLEY — The Cassia County School Board Monday night turned down a request of its new bilingual-bicultural program.

It refused to approve attendance of its new director at a foreign language convention. Superintendent of Schools Harold Blauer had requested approval for Glen Probst to attend the Nov. 25-28 convention on bilingual education and intercultural relationships in New Orleans.

But Chairman Dan Crane objected to sending a new employee to a convention and board members supported his stand. Probst is the director for the district's new program for Mexican-Americans, a program forced upon it when the Office of Civil Rights found it guilty of discriminatory practices in education.

Probst joined the district last month.

Citing the newness of the bilingual-bicultural program, Blauer said, "We need all the help we can get."

Turkey accord urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration urged Congress today to approve a $1 billion defense agreement with Turkey, but Sen. Claiborne, R-Ill., said consideration of a new defense pact should be suspended until a Cyprus settlement is reached.

Undersecretary of State Philip C. Habib asked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to approve the measure, saying there has been a serious loss of intelligence data gathered by American installations in Turkey. The bases were shut down last year in retaliation for a congressionally imposed arms embargo against Turkey.

Deputy Defense Secretary Robert Ellsworth told the panel the United States needs its Turkish bases to monitor any new SALT arms control agreement.

The accord signed by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger March 26, the United States would be allowed to resume operations at some two dozen installations in Turkey, including electronic monitoring of Soviet activities.

The bases were closed in July, 1975, when Congress, angered by the use of American-supplied arms against Greece in fighting on Cyprus, cut off military aid.

Ellsworth said the intelligence facilities were vital to check on Russian military activities and to restrain the Soviet air force from adding power to the naval threat in the Mediterranean.

He said the government was aware of "the difficult political and humanitarian problems" of Greek-Turkish relationship and said there soon would be a similar defense agreement with Greece which will be presented to Congress.

Habib, third-ranking State Department official, argued recently for Senate approval, citing Turkey's strategic location and the loss of intelligence information.

Much of this lost information cannot be replicated by other systems and sites now available to us," he said. "The adverse effect of this intelligence loss increases rather than diminishes with the passage of time, and we do not foresee resolution of the problem by the substitution of other country sites or more sophisticated technology in the near future."

"In sum, we need the Turkish facilities," Ellsworth said.

'Sunshine' violators in trouble

BOISE (UPI) — A crack-down on "consistent violators" of Idaho's Sunshine Law was announced Tuesday by Attorney General Wayne Kidwell.

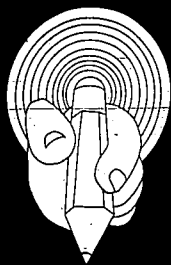

Kidwell said he had ordered charges be drafted against violators who consistently failed to file their reports with the office of the Secretary of State.

Candidates must report the campaign receipts and expenditures while lobbyists are required to file reports on their activities and expenditures. Kidwell said the charges would be filed in cooperation with local prosecuting attorneys against candidates and lobbyists who failed in accordance with provisions of the Sunshine Act providing for campaign disclosure and lobbyists registration.

"We've got a point where we have to do something," Kidwell said.

The attorney general said he has directed Deputy Attorney General David High to look over the latest delinquency list received from Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa and draft charges against those who have been delinquent on at least three occasions.

Buhl problems in limbo

Buhl. — City Council members, tired from a long meeting Tuesday night, adjourned several additional business items until Tuesday of next week.

Mayor Dale Christensen said the meeting next week will be an adjourned session of this week's council meeting. The Buhl council meets monthly usually on the second Tuesday of each month.

The mayor said he also expects to have an answer within the next few days on a request for a street light in the center of a block near the Lincoln Courts, a senior citizens housing. He asked council members to look at the area at night and express their opinions. Two other lighting requests were granted, both at intersections within residential areas.

City council members were also asked to give some consideration to a fence problem which has developed in Buhl.

One home on Broadway North built a fence some years ago which violates the current city ordinance. Mayor Christensen told the council.

A neighbor began construction on a fence which also extended onto city property and was told by public works director Lawrence Fawcett that if the project were completed the city could well require removal of the fence.

Fawcett told the council the builder continued the project in spite of the warning. Now, he said, everyone in that area seems to be building a fence on city "parking" strips and almost up to the curb line.

City officials called for a research of the city ordinance before attempting to resolve the issue.

expected for the past two or three days.

The weekend outlook is for sunny skies and pleasant temperatures. Highs in the 70s, lows in the 40s.

The shower activity has gradually weakened during the past few days and rainfall reported over the Magic Valley Wednesday was very scattered and mostly light.

The activity seemed to be centered around Castelford where .10 inch were reported. Wendell received .03 inch. Most Magic Valley stations reported none.

Feeder cattle numbers increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The number of cattle on feed for slaughter Sept. 1 in seven major producing states was up 8 percent from a year earlier, according to a survey by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The report also showed, however, that the margin over year-ago levels is narrowing. It is predicted by economists that the margin will continue to shrink because they have been losing money at recent beef cattle price levels.

The 8 per cent gain over year-ago numbers contrasted with a 12 per cent gap on Aug. 1, the report noted.

The report, based on surveys by the Agriculture Department's Crop Reporting Board, said the number of grain-fed cattle sent to slaughter from the seven states in August was up 31 per cent from 1975 and 22 per cent above two years ago.

Officials said the total number of cattle and calves on feed in the states Sept. 1 was 6.42 million head. They also noted the number placed on feed during August was 1.404 million, up 10 per cent from last year.

The number on feed in the seven states Sept. 1 was up from a year earlier in all but two states — Arizona which reported 260,000 head, for a 27 per cent decline, and California where the 782,000 head estimate was virtually unchanged from last year.

In other states, the Sept. 1 survey showed:

Colorado — 690,000 head, up

3 per cent from last year; Iowa — 1,010 million head, up 12 per cent; Kansas — 1,160 million head, up 14 per cent; Nebraska — 1,200 million head, up 20 per cent; and Texas — 1,470 million head, up 10 per cent.

Butz flays policy

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) —

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says the farm policy of Jimmy Carter and the Democrats would include a return to a government grain surplus.

Butz told the Iowa Grain and Feed Association that the Democrats' "strategic reserves" mean government grain surpluses.

The agriculture secretary began criticizing Carter before his speech even began before the IFGA.

Talking with reporters, Butz said he got a kick out of Carter repeatedly asserting he'd fire Butz if the Democrats take the White House in November.

Referring to Carter's latest firing of Butz, the 67-year-old former professor said, "He's so damn stupid he doesn't realize that when a President goes out the cabinet door too."

Concerning Carter's criticism of "agri-business," Butz told the IFGA the former Georgia governor has built up more than $5 million peanut-related conglomerate in Georgia.

Record Gem onion crop

BOISE (UPI) —

A record onion crop is expected this year in the Idaho-East Oregon area, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

The service said 1978 onion production in the area is forecast at 6,932,000 hundredweight, which would be a record high and would be 34 per cent above the 1975 output.

Both yield and acreage increased substantially from 1975 resulting in the sharp increase in production over a year earlier.

Yield is forecast at 520 cwt. per acre, compared with 450 cwt. in 1975 and 480 cwt. in 1974. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 11,300, compared with 10,000 acres last year and 9,900 in 1974.

The service said harvest is active at the present time. It also reported weather was ideal for crop development early in the season but cool temperatures during the first half of August slowed development.

Currently the weather is excellent for curing and harvest, the agency said. The crop condition to date appears to be excellent.

Wheat, bean crops look good

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho may realize record wheat and dry bean crops this year despite adverse weather during August, the State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

Above normal precipitation and below normal temperatures for August slowed maturity and harvest of most crops and grain and hay harvest Sept. 1 was lagging somewhat behind normal, the service said.

Scattered hail damage occurred during the first half of August, particularly in the northern and southcentral portions of the state, but the service said "crops" damaged most by hail were small grains, peas and beans.

Temperatures dipped below freezing Aug. 27 in some of the higher elevation crop areas in eastern Idaho, the service said. Tops of potato vines were nipped in the Ashton and Teton Basin areas and spotted damage occurred in some other eastern Idaho localities.

The service said weather the last week of August was quite favorable for maturity and harvest of most crops with temperatures in the 80's and 90's.

It reported production of all wheat, all of Sept. 1, was indicated at a record 2,812,000 bushels, up 12 per cent from the 1975. Dry beans were forecast at a record 2,812,000 hundredweight, up nine per cent above last year.

506 SECOND AVE. EAST

733-8081

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In spite of the drought which has withered pastures and crops in areas including some major dairy regions, national milk production this summer is continuing to boom well ahead of year-ago levels, Agriculture Department officials say.

A department report Tuesday noted that August milk production was 5.7 per cent above a year ago despite drought in the north central states which include major dairy areas in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"With pastures short or nonexistent, cows are receiving a more balanced ration than normal," officials explained in a statement.

"Also, a favorable relationship between milk and feed prices makes it economical to feed (grain) at a rate high enough to keep production up," experts added.

Patrick B. Healy, Secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, agreed that milk prices have been at profitable levels for efficient farmers recently. But Healy, who is pressing the Agriculture Department to increase support on at least some milk products Oct. 1, said prices were only part of the story.

For the present, at least, Healy said many farmers in drought areas have been keeping production up by using feed which normally would be saved for next winter.

"These people are chopping their (drought-damaged) corn and feeding it now. I don't know what they're going to do in the winter," Healy said.

The milk federation official added, however, that he is not predicting an unusual decline in milk production during the coming winter.

"Somehow they'll find a way to get feed for these cows. I don't look for more than a seasonal drop in production," he added.

Agriculture Department officials said their milk-feed ratio, which measures relations between what farmers pay for feed and what they get by selling their milk, was up 8.3 per cent in August from July estimates and was 11 per cent above a year earlier.

In spite of that improvement, Healy said in an interview the milk producers federation is asking the Agriculture Department to increase price supports on Oct. 1 — particularly for milk used in making butter and nonfat dry milk.

Currently, the average government support for all manufacturing-grade milk is $8.13 per hundredweight. But milk used in cheese is being supported at $8.28 per hundredweight, while the floor for milk used in butter and nonfat powder is only $7.98.

Healy said administration officials have been asked to eliminate the "tilt" in favor of cheese by setting supports for all manufacturing milk at $8.28 or 80 per cent of the "fair" parity price, whichever is higher. He said an 80 per cent support would probably not be more than a cent or two away from the $8.28 level.

The proposal would raise the overall average support by 15 cents, from $8.13 to $8.28 per hundredweight. But all of the increase would be taken up in the butter-powder products, while cheese supports would remain unchanged.

Healy said he could not predict what the administration would do. But he indicated he found a favorable preliminary response to his arguments against the differential between cheese and butter-powder prices.

portions of the state, but the service said crops damaged most by hail were small grains, peas and beans.

Temperatures dipped below freezing Aug. 27 in some of the higher elevation crop areas in eastern Idaho, the service said. Tops of potato vines were nipped in the Ashton and Teton Basin areas and spotted damage occurred in some other eastern Idaho localities.

The service said weather the last week of August was quite favorable for maturity and harvest of most crops with temperatures in the 80's and 90's.

It reported production of all wheat, as of Sept. 1, was indicated at a record 67,240,000 bushels, up 12 per cent from the 1975. Dry beans were forecast at a record 2,812,000 hundredweight, up nine per cent above last year.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of cattle on feed for slaughter Sept. 1 in seven major producing states was up 8 per cent from a year earlier, prompting continued heavy beef supplies for the short run, an Agriculture Department report indicates.

The report also showed, however, that the margin over year-ago levels is narrowing, as predicted by economists. Who say farmers are preparing to shrink future supplies because they have been losing money at recent beef cattle price levels.

The 8 per cent gain over year-ago numbers contrasted

The report, based on surveys by the Agriculture Department's Crop Reporting Board, said the number of grain-fed cattle sent to slaughter from the seven states in August was up 31 per cent from 1975 and 22 per cent above two years ago.

Officials said the total number of cattle and calves on feed in the states Sept. 1 was 6.432 million head. They also noted the number placed on feed during August was 1.404 million, up 10 per cent from last year.

The number on feed in the seven states Sept. 1 was up from a year earlier in all but two states — Arizona which reported 260,000 head for a 27 per cent decline, and California where the 782,000 head estimate was virtually unchanged from last year.

In other states, the Sept. survey showed:

Colorado — 690,000 head, up 3 per cent from last year; Iowa — 1.010 million head, up 12 per cent; Kansas — 1.160 million head, up 14 per cent; Nebraska — 1.060 million head, up 20 per cent; and Texas — 1.470 million head, up 10 per cent.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says the farm policies of Jimmy Carter and the Democrats would include a return to a government grain surplus.

- Butz told the Iowa Grain and Feed Association that Democratic references to "strategic reserves" mean government grain surpluses.
- The agriculture secretary began criticizing Carter before his speech even began before the IFPGA.
- Talking with reporters, Butz said he got a kick out of Carter repeatedly asserting he'd fire Butz if the Democrats take the

Referring to Carter's latest firing of Butz, the 67-year-old former professor said, "He's so damn stupid he doesn't realize that when a President goes out the cabinet does too."

Concerning Carter's criticism of "agri-business," Butz told the IGFA the former Georgia governor has built up a more than $5 million peanut-related conglomerate in Georgia.

BOISE (UPI) — A record onion crop is expected this year in the Idaho-East Oregon area, the Idaho Crop and Livestock-Reporting Service said today.

The service said 1976 onion production in the area is forecast at 6,032,000 hundredweight, which would be a record high and would be 34 percent above the 1975 output.

Both yield and acreage increased for onions in 1976. Yields resulting in the crop increase in production over a year earlier.

Yield is forecast at 520 cwt. per acre, compared with 450 cwt. in 1975 and 490 cwt. in 1974. Acreage is estimated at 11,600, compared with 10,000 acres last year and 9,900 in 1974.

The service said harvest is active at the present time. It also reported weather was favorable for harvesting onions early in the season but cool temperatures during the first half of August slowed development.

Currently the weather is excellent for curing and marketing onions, it said. The crop condition data appears to be excellent.

US milk production over '75

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In spite of the drought which has withered pastures and crops in areas including some major dairy regions, national milk production this summer is continuing to boom well ahead of year-ago levels. Agriculture Department officials say.

A department report Tuesday noted that August milk production was 5.7 per cent above a year ago despite drought in the north central states which include major dairy areas in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"With pastures short or nonexistent, cows are receiving a more balanced ration than normal," officials explained in a statement.

"Also, a favorable relationship between milk and feed prices makes it economical to feed (grain) at a rate high enough to keep production up," experts added.

Patrick B. Healy, Secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, agreed that milk prices have been at profitable levels for efficient farmers recently. But Healy, who is pressing the Agriculture Department for more support, said that some milk producers Oct. 1, said prices were only part of the story.

For the present, at least, Healy said many farmers in drought areas have been keeping production up by using feed which normally would be saved for next winter.

"These people are chopping their (drought-damaged) corn and feeding it now. I don't know what they're going to do in the winter," Healy said.

The milk federation official added, however, that he is not predicting an unusual decline in milk production during the coming winter.

"Somewhere they'll find a way to get feed for these cows. I don't look for more than a seasonal drop in production," he added.

Agriculture Department officials said their milk-feed ratio, which measures relations between what farmers pay for feed and what they get by selling their milk, was up 6.3 per cent in August from July estimates and was 11 per cent above a year earlier.

In spite of that improvement, Healy said in an interview the milk producers' federation is asking the Agriculture Department to increase price supports on Oct. 1 — particularly for milk used in making butter and nonfat

dry milk.

Currently, the average government support for all manufacturing-grade milk is $8.13 per hundredweight. But milk used in cheese is being supported at $8.28 per hundredweight, while the floor for milk used in butter and nonfat powder is only $7.98.

Healy said administration officials have been asked to eliminate the "111" in favor of cheese by setting supports for all manufacturing milk at $8.28 or 80 per cent of the "111" parity price, whichever is higher. He said an 80 per cent support would probably not be more than a cent or two away from the $8.28 level.

The proposal would raise the overall average support by 15 cents, from $8.13 to $8.28 per hundredweight. But all of the increase would be taken up in the butter powder products, while cheese supports would remain unchanged.

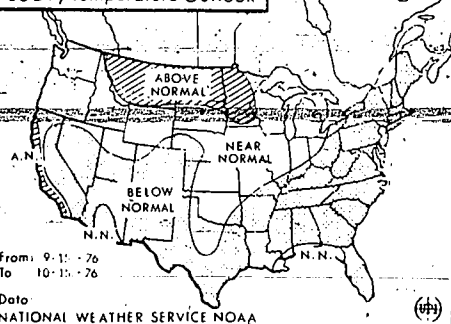

Healy said he could not predict what the administration would do. But he indicated he found a favorable preliminary response to his arguments against the differential between cheese and butter powder prices.

T.F. invades Minico to top 14-game slate

The Twin Falls Bruins, flushed by an overtime victory, and the Minico Spartans, stung by two straight defeats, collide in Rupert Friday night to head up a 14-game weekend high school schedule.

But it isn't the only big game going on. Bull's vaunted running attack, augmented by the passing of Cary Schmeckpeper, run into the Gooding Senators and a passing barrage put up by transfer Mann. Valley goes to Kimberly to settle the matter of east-end supremacy.

But at Rupert, the action could become furious: Twin Falls proved susceptible to passing midway through their 20-14 overtime decision over Nampa last week but then intercepted three of Nampa's last four pass attempts to nail down the decision. The one that got away could just have well been intercepted.

Minico will give the Bruins a lot of different looks during the game as new Coach Kay Harper has one of the more varied offenses around. Coach Harper now has had five men throw passes in two games and changes quarterbacks quite frequently.

Sleewise the two teams will be pretty close with Minico slightly larger in average.

The Bull-Gooding affair could be a high scorer if Gooding gets its passing attack clicking. New Coach John Biletz promised from opening night it would not be rare to see Mann throwing the ball 35 times a night.

Last week Mann threw for a one-yard touchdown, which seems to bear out the coach's prediction well.

But Bull Coach John Jund has never professed great anxiety about his secondary, only the newness of his line. And following last week's decision over Winnemucca, he said he felt the defensive line had improved immeasurably in the last half of that game.

And then the Senators also must contend with the Bull speed of Chris Bell and Terry Clayton plus the 200-pound hammering of Keith Meltzer.

Then Jerome Tigers who have shown a proclivity for tight ones, Jake in the Cross State Conference road once again to play at Blackfoot.

Jerome is currently 1-1 with a sum point difference of one. It lost to Burley 29-28 in overtime and whipped Madison 26-25 last week. Coach Duane Alexander scouted Blackfoot last week and was impressed with the team, noting his Tigers will have to play well to win.

The time Filer high school has waited for so many years finally comes at 8 p.m. Friday night in Wendell. No Filer didn't particularly want to play in Wendell but it wanted in the A-3 classification Little Five alignment. It's there now, the league is called Big Six and the Wildcats loom as favorites to debut successfully.

Burley, sky high after ending four losing years at the hands of Minico — and impressively, will be home for the first time to entertain the Madison Bobcats. Madison doesn't mind throwing the ball but prefers to have Bart Stevens run with it — as Jerome found out four scoring times last week. Dave Jones is Burley's double threat reply.

Defense should again be the order at Kimberly when the Vikings venture across the river. Both teams have allowed only one touchdown in two outings and have scored a minimum of three touchdowns each. It should also be a key affair in the final outcome of the Big Six race.

Glenns Ferry, happy with the performance of its largely sophomore line against Mountain Home's Jayvees last week, tries that new experience against Kuna on the Pilot home field. Kuna should be formidable for the Pilots as the Kavenen played to within two points of Bull for three quarters before finally bowing 24-14.

In a non-league game, the Shoshone Indians, losers of two outings, will be at Castleford where the Wolves lost their opener 28-20, to the Jerome Jayvees.

In the Magic Valley conference, undefeated Declo brings its 2-0 record to Hansen. Which is 0-1, while Hagerman, also 2-0, will be at Murtaugh, where the Young Devils have lost twice.

An all-Cassia County affair develops at Oakley with the home-standing Hornets taking on the Itall River Trojans.

Afternoon eight-man action will be found out of the district. Camas County 2-0, will be at Clark County; Richfield at North Gem of Bancroft, and Carey at Rockliffe. The weekend, with Camas County and Carey now appearing to be the strength of the westside, should provide an insight into the total Snake River eight-man conference chase.

Idaho-BSU game film showing set

TWIN FALLS — Film of the University of Idaho's tight 16-0 decision over Boise State last week will be shown Thursday night at the Turf Club.

Projectionist Jerry Meyerhoefer stressed the change of location of the film showing. The film will roll at 8 p.m., he said.

Stanford protests play

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford Athletic Director Joe Ruetz says he last one to complain about a referee's error in judgment, but he can't excuse a referee for letting a team play with 12 men on the field.

Ruetz has written a letter to the officials who handled the Stanford game against Penn State last weekend, which the Cardinals lost 15-12, complaining that the NFL Lions scored their second touchdown with an extra man on the field.

He also complained that Stanford was called for an ineligible receiver by an official on the field who was in no position to make the call, which was not made by the official whose duty it was to watch for the infraction.

Ruetz said the facts justifying his protest are all right there on the game film.

Dolphins find help

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula held a special tryout to ease the team's critical situation at linebacker and picked up just what he wanted — someone who can help out on the special teams.

The one-day session ended with free agent Mike Dennerly in a Dolphins uniform.

Dennerly, a 6-foot, 225-pounder from Southern Mississippi, played two seasons on the Oakland Raiders' specialty teams before being traded to the San Diego Chargers, who cut him this summer. He saw action against the Dolphins in a 1974 playoff game.

Canada wins cup

MONTREAL (UPI) — Darryl Sittler faked out Czech goaltender Vladimir Dzurilla, then fired into the vacant net at 11:33 of the first overtime session to give Canada a 5-4 victory over Czechoslovakia Wednesday night and earn for the last nation the championship of its own Canada Cup of Hockey tournament.

Bills claim Kinney

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills, trying to fill the void in their backfield left by an injury to running back Jim Braxton, Wednesday claimed Jeff Kinney on waivers from Kansas City.

Kinney, 6-foot-2 and 215 pounds, was the Chiefs' first-round draft choice in 1972 after he was a star running back at the University of Nebraska.

Bando files suit

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Oakland A's third baseman Sal Bando and his wife have filed a $2 million lawsuit charging the publishers of "Swank" magazine with defamation of character and invasion of privacy.

In the suit, attorneys for Bando and his wife Sandra accuse the magazine of "intentionally and wrongfully publishing a few biographical depictions of him."

CSI-Ricks, TF-Jerome duels highlight cross country meet

TWIN FALLS — CSI runs into an import-dominated Ricks crew while Twin Falls and Jerome renew their weekly battle Friday in the annual College of Southern Idaho cross country invitational.

The college division will lead things off at 2:30 p.m., followed by the high school girls at 4 p.m., boys jayvees, 3:30, the boys varsity at 4 p.m.

The races will start at the CSI maintenance building and wind through the campus.

"We're going to find out how good we are right away," says Coach Jim Blaisdell looking toward the Ricks matchup. "Ricks Coach Jed Gibson has been quoted as comparing this year's cross country team with the one they had in 1965 — and they were the national champions that year. They have two Norwegians and another runner from Africa who are supposed to be very good."

Although 19 high schools are expected to participate in the prep portion of the meet, it should again boil down to Twin Falls and Jerome in all three divisions. Twin Falls boys topped Jerome last week to square things at 1-1 while the Jerome girls edged the Bruins by one point. Jerome's jayvees haven't lost in so long probably not even Coach Tim Dunn remembers the last time.

Switching back to CSI, coach Blaisdell believes the club line of his better ones.

Highlighting the returnees is sophomore Steve Kaufman who was sixth in the national six mile last year. Manuel Montoya, who had a 3:42 mile last spring, is looking "much better."

Off injured Mark Singleton at Mountain Home, out of cross country and track last year with leg injuries, is running well and still healthy. The other sophomore is Paul Ransen from Oregon who had mononucleosis last spring and missed the track season.

Newcomers are Chester Konecki, Mountain Home, second in the state two-mile, and prep teammate Tim Santos. Paul Pilkington was fifth in state cross country and fourth in the two and five in the one mile in state track for Blackfoot. Joe Larrigan of Wood River and Vic Boyd of Fernley, Nev., runner/triathlete.

The remainder of the CSI cross country schedule includes Sept. 25, CSI at Las Vegas; Oct. 2, CSI at Whitman Invitational, Walla Walla; Oct. 9, CSI at Blue Mountain Invitational, Pendleton; Oct. 16, CSI at Idaho Invitational, Boise; Oct. 23, CSI at Ricks Invitational; Oct. 29, CSI Invitational, and Nov. 6, CSI at regional in Bond, Ore.

Ross doubles up in Jackpot's pro-am

JACKPOT — Blue Lakes professional Nate Ross didn't win first but still wound up the big winner in the Cactus Pete's pro-am prelude Wednesday.

Ross, stepping in when a couple of fellow pros didn't make their tee-off time, played with two teams and found both of them tying for second place. The double runner-up spot was worth $300 to him.

The team victory went to Chris Indall and Washington amateurs Bob Watts and Larry Elmer at 57. Ross teamed with members Jerry Shane and Al Rohwerder in the "pick up" duo of Wayne Doney and Dick Morison to card a pair of 58s. Also in the two-team was host pro Bill Downs and amateurs Dick Kerr and Sam McMullen.

Sharing 59s were the teams of pro Fred Sinclair and amateurs Tom Kearns and Leonard Anderson and pro Norm Lydiard and John Sanford Sr. and Jack Owens.

The real jam developed for seventh spot among seven teams. Among these were pro Willie Barber, Cecil Wolf and Doyle Huber; pro Mike Renshaw and Harold Loveland and Buck Garner; pro Jim Marshall and Mike McNulty and Verlan Gummel; pro Ken Sparks and Vince Falco and Bill Brodeen and pro Clyde Thigmen and Doyle Dugger and Tom Ballantyne.

A total of 34 three-man teams participated in the one-day event, which also served as a practice round for the $20,000 Cactus Pete's tournament which opened at Jackpot and Twin Falls municipal courses Thursday morning.

Some past entries were accepted Wednesday, raising the number of amateurs to 131 and professionals to 58. But other individuals were forced to cancel for personal or business reasons.

The open will continue through Sunday night although the amateur portion will award merchandise prizes after three days of play.

The format called for the pros to play Twin Falls minus Thursday and Friday with the high and low handicap amateurs — split at 12 — alternating between those two links for the first two rounds. All the pros switch to Jackpot Saturday while the amateur field comes to Twin Falls for its final round.

Sunday's field will include the 90 low scores and ties from the first three days and with 58 pros, at least 32 amateurs will play for the "Sunday special" $1,000 and a chance for the overall crown.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Justice Department official says he sees no justification for exempting professional sports from federal antitrust laws and suggested baseball's antitrust exemption be removed by Congress.

Assistant Attorney General Joe Sims of the Antitrust Division made the comments in testimony prepared for delivery today to the House Select Committee on Professional Sports.

"This question of antitrust exemption should be laid to rest, unless and until baseball or another professional sports industry comes forth with a compelling case to apply different commercial rules to their business than are common," said Sims.

Baseball's antitrust exemption was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1922, but the Court since has disavowed the rationales behind the decision, Sims said. In Curt Flood's challenge to baseball's reserve clause, the Court reaffirmed the exemption, saying any changes would have to be made by Congress.

"The Congress, having received this invitation, should accept it without delay," said Sims. "We can see no economic or other justification for exempting baseball from the antitrust laws."

"So many people ask me if I'm going to try and knock All out," Norton continued. "The question sounds stupid but it's really very intelligent."

"When a ballplayer tries too hard for the home run — he invariably pops out or hits one in the dirt. But when he's got that nice smooth swing working, a lot of balls are going over that fence."

"I'm going out there to work," the ex-Marine continued. "Steady pressure, working the job and combinations. I will relax out there without trying to take him out with every punch I throw."

"When I tag him right — he's out of the ballpark."

baseball differently from the other professional team sports, which are now clearly subject to the antitrust laws."

He said bringing baseball under the antitrust tent could encourage the establishment of competitive leagues and check any abuses of economic power by established leagues.

"For example, the antitrust laws would act as a limitation on concerted efforts by team owners to dictate employment terms without regard to any collective bargaining relationships," he said.

Sims also charged that "the real complaint of the professional sports business is that it does not much care for the courts of this country holding their business practices up to the scrutiny of the antitrust laws."

"I dare say that any number of other business operations treat exactly the same way, or they would, in any event, if they had the same losing streak going."

Sims said his department keeps close watch for antitrust violations and anticompetitive conduct, especially involving constraints on player movement, but that it believes private litigation most effectively resolves the issues.

Norton plans 'smooth swing' approach in title rematch

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (UPI) — Just like a good baseball batter, Ken Norton says he'll be going for "that nice smooth swing," rather than trying "too hard for the home run" when he faces Muhammad Ali for the world heavyweight championship in Yonkers Stadium Sept. 28.

"So many people ask me if I'm going to try and knock Ali out," Norton continued. "The question sounds stupid but it's really very intelligent."

"When a ballplayer tries too hard for the home run — he invariably pops out or hits one in the dirt. But when he's got that nice smooth swing working, a lot of balls are going over that fence."

"I'm going out there to work," the ex-Marine continued. "Steady pressure, working the job and combinations. I will relax out there without trying to take him out with every punch I throw."

"When I tag him right — he's out of the ballpark."

Norton's trainer, Bill Slyaton, is cutting the challenger back in his work.

"Ken's right where we want him," states Slyaton with confidence. "He couldn't be any better physically or mentally and is nearing top form. We're not leaving our fight in the gym. He's worked very hard over these past eight weeks and all the hard work and sacrifice will pay off on the 28th."

"I'm going to ease him up a little bit this week," revealed the trainer. "We'll keep boxing but I'll keep a close eye on him. His weight is holding steady at about 216-pounds so I'm not concerned with that aspect of his training."

"I'm very proud of Ken," Slyaton said, looking Norton in the eye. "The world will be proud of him too on September 28th."

Norton, who has boxed 200 rounds since opening camp, will stay in Grossinger's until three days before the fight, when he will switch his operation to New York City.

Cavaller rookies 'disgust' coach

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Coach Bill Fitch of the defending central division champion Cleveland Cavaliers put 10 rookies through their first workout Wednesday and it disgusted him.

"The only good thing I can say about that practice is that it was short," said Fitch. "It was the worst rookie practice I've seen in quite some time."

"It reminded me of when we came into the league as an expansion team," said Fitch. "More than half of them aren't in shape and it shows. If I had to go on what I saw this morning, I'd cut everybody."

It was a strenuous, two-hour session of a new, expensive maple floor installed as a practice court at the coliseum — distinguishing the Cavs as the only team in the league with a permanent practice floor in its home base. The court, secured with 45,000 nails, is equivalent to one-third acre or 7 1/2 miles of 1 1/2 inch boards.

"It's a big expenditure but it will help us in the long run because it's battered after the floor we play on during the games," said Fitch, also the team's general manager. "But the floor isn't going to make the player."

Fitch is trying to do that, but it's hard. So is the fact that only one, and possibly two of those here will be invited back to training camp when the veterans report Sept. 24, because competition to make the varsity is tough — as the Cavs' third round draft pick, forward — center Gary Cole of Wisconsin Parkside already has discovered.

"If a rookie showed up before and had potential the club usually would keep him on the roster," said the 49, 210 pound Cole. "Now you have to show your maturity on the court right away. You have to come in ready to play, not just to try and make the team."

While Cole wants to make the team, No. 1 choice Chuckie Williams of Kansas State and No. 2 pick Mo Howard of Maryland, Fitch also would like to accomplish something in the next few days.

"What we have to decide now is which rookies to keep to make things interesting when the veterans come in," said Fitch. "We have to have them oriented on what we're doing now so we don't have to explain things later because there won't be any time later."

"The first couple days we see what God gave them — the good head and body," said Fitch. "Then we see how they utilize those skills and what they learned. Not all of them are able to grasp everything we're throwing at them."

That's why Fitch is glad his team doesn't play any exhibition games for two weeks.

Chiefs try Lanier on outside

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)

The Kansas City Chiefs, trying to regroup from a season-opening 39-16 loss to the San Diego Chargers, Wednesday worked middle linebacker Willie Lanier at an outside linebacking position.

Chiefs coach Paul Wiggins said it would be later in the week before he decided whether to use Lanier on the outside in Monday night's game with Oakland. He said he would meet with Lanier and the final decision would be made by both the player and the coach.

If the move is made, rookie Jimmie Elrod of Oklahoma, a 209-pound fifth-round draft choice, would assume the starting middle linebacker spot with Lanier and Jim Lynch on the outside.

Lanier, who met with Wiggins and discussed the possible change on Tuesday, said he was still not sure he wanted to move.

"The big question is when you have done a certain thing in a certain place for 15 years can you adapt to the change," said Lanier, the main force in Kansas City's defense. "It is a question of whether the transition can be swung in a manner which will be beneficial."

Another problem facing the Chiefs is the possibility Lynch may not be able to play in Monday's game. He hurt a knee in the Sunday loss to San Diego and is questionable, but Wiggins anticipates Lynch will be in the lineup.

"I have nothing to base it on except the type of guy Jim Lynch is," said Wiggins. "Last year he broke a hand and didn't tell anyone. Even with the knee injury, I didn't know about it until the doctor called late Monday night. He doesn't complain about anything."

Elrod has been a pleasant surprise for the Chiefs. With 5.0 speed in the 40-yard dash he is not quick and his size (6-0; 209) is not much as far as professionals are concerned but Wiggins said Elrod overcomes those limitations.

Utah county sues Stars

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)

The Salt Lake County Attorney has filed suit against Denver businessman Bill Daniels, claiming Daniels owes more than $50,000 for 33 games his defunct Utah Stars failed to play here after they folded.

The federal court suit, filed for the Salt Lake County Auditorium Board, names Daniels, his Mountain States Sports, Inc., Denver, and his New Hampshire Insurance Co., as defendants.

The county charges Daniels with breach of contract when he folded the ABA team with 33 home games left to be played in the Salt Palace.

Finley awaits answer on new offers

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — Five Oakland A's players will tell owner Charlie Finley within three days whether they will accept his latest contract offer, according to their attorney.

"We're going to try to talk with him again within three days," said Jerry Kapstein, attorney for relief pitcher Rolfe Fingers, outfielders Joe Rudi and Don Baylor, first baseman Gene Tenace and shortstop Bert Campaneris.

The five will become free agents at the end of the season if they do not sign.

"They'd like to stay in the Oakland area," Kapstein said Wednesday after a two-hour meeting with the controversial Finley. "They like it there. They like to play together."

"They'll take a little less to stay in Oakland, but not a lot less," Kapstein said. He declined to reveal how much Finley offered the players.

The offer was the first from Finley since he sold Fingers and Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each last June. The sale was voided by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Finley is contesting the ruling in federal courts.

"It's a question of what is fair," Kapstein said. "Joe Rudi is one of the top outfielders in the game and he wants to get (paid) according to what other top outfielders want to get paid."

"Gene Tenace is one of the most productive offensive right-hand batters in the game. He's also an outstanding receiver. He wants to get paid what other people of his similar abilities get paid," Kapstein said.

"The same thing with Rolfe Fingers. He's probably without peer in the big leagues as a relief pitcher," he said. "Don Baylor...there are players who are comparable with Don. I'm aware of contracts they have got. The same with Campy Campaneris."

Kapstein said Finley "has done more than anyone else to establish the value of players. All I have on the table are some new proposals from Charlie," he said. "We're going to consider them. We're going to give him an answer and even if we reject we still hope we can continue talking."

MVM Hospital conforms to Nurse Practices Act

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital has been given a nearly clean bill of health by the State Nursing Board on the use of its nursing staff.

Nursing Director Nancy Churchman told the MVMH board Monday a team from the state board had reviewed the hospital's nursing staff earlier this month and found there were no major violations of the Nurse Practice Act.

The state review followed allegations earlier this summer that the hospital was allowing aides and orderlies to assume nursing functions and that licensed practical nurses (LPNs) were performing functions legally restricted to registered nurses (RNs).

The allegations surfaced during upheaval over wages and a nursing shortage at the hospital which was leaving the nursing staff overworked.

The hospital has since increased wages and closed its short-term care unit to relieve some of the patient care pressure on the nurses.

Senate passes bribery law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today approved legislation to provide stiff fines and prison terms for representatives of U.S. companies who bribe foreign officials.

The bill, an outgrowth of the Lockheed bribery scandals, was passed 86 to 0 and sent to the House.

An attempt to attach the legislation to a House-passed bill in an effort to ensure congressional passage before adjournment was blocked.

The Senate version calls for up to two years in prison and fines up to $10,000 for payments, promises of payments, or authorization of payments of anything of value to any foreign official, political party, candidate for office or intermediary for bribery.

The nursing shortage, however, continues, with the increase in pay having had little effect in the hospital's ability to recruit RNs.

Mrs. Churchman said 12 additional RNs spread over the hospital's three shifts would make the operation "marginal" and allow the reopening of the short-term care unit, but she said recruitment efforts so far have failed to gain additional staff.

The state board review, Mrs. Churchman told the board, was made Sept. 7 by Doris Kelly, a member of the nursing board, and Phyllis Sheridan, an educational consultant for the state board.

She said the team had approved MVMH as a clinical facility for the training of registered and practical nurses through the College of Southern Idaho's nursing school.

The "hospital" board routinely renewed its working contract with CSI Monday night.

Mrs. Churchman said the survey by state officials included a review of all nursing staff job descriptions and interviews with nurses on all floors of the hospital.

She said the review uncovered "no gross problem," although she added that some suggestions were made.

One area needing further clarification, she said, was state regulations on the taking of blood pressures.

At Magic Valley Memorial, she said, aides and orderlies are allowed to take blood pressures. She said the state team was not sure how state regulations would affect this practice because "no firm determination" had been made at the state level.

She said other recommendations made by the state team were "minor, just little things" and would be communicated to the hospital in writing.

"We have been unequivocally approved as a clinical facility," she concluded.

The state officials were in a meeting Tuesday and could not be reached for comment.

Mrs. Churchman said the hospital had been notified of the state team's visit a week to 10 days in advance but had made no change in regular procedures to prepare for the visit.

Program dropped

TWIN FALLS — Blaine County has decided to drop the county's 28-month program of hauling away old cars.

The county commissioners decided Monday to drop the program.

"It's nothing but a pain in the neck," Zoning Administrator William McClung said, pointing out that local businesses can perform the service.

McClung estimated the county hauled about 2,000 wrecked cars and pieces of machinery to the sanitary landfill during the 28-month program.

Amin scores Henry

NATROBI, Kenya (UPI) — President Idi Amin of Uganda attacked Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Africa visit today as an attempt to divide and crush black liberation movements in southern Africa.

"Kissinger is Africa's greatest enemy," Amin said in remarks broadcast over Radio Uganda. He accused Britain of "being in the pocket of the Americans."

Amin said Kissinger intended to divide the continent during his visit and "disorganize the liberation movements in southern Africa and destroy them."

Amin has been a constant critic of U.S. African policy.

New TF fair sheep barn, arena used first time

Thursday, September 16, 1976 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 27

FILER — Sheepmen at the Twin Falls County Fair used their new sheep barn and show arena for the first time during this year's fair.

The new building holds 100 pens and can accommodate several hundred animals.

Bruce Beutrow, Eagle, walked away with honors in the wethers class, winning blue ribbons for rams one year and under two and for under one year, as well as ewes one year and under two and under one year, and two yearling ewes, pen of three ram lambs and produce of dam.

Olson's Ranch, Twin Falls, won blue in the Southdown class for ram one year and under, under one year, ewe one year and under two and under one year, produce of dam, and get-of-sire.

Blue ribbon winners for Suffolk included Wilder Brothers, Eagle, for ram one year and under two, ewe under one year, two yearling ewes, pen of three ewe lambs, produce of dam, get-of-sire, and flock, and received the rosettes for champion ram and champion ewe.

Sam Larson, Meridian, was awarded purple ribbons for reserve champion ram and reserve champion ewe, and blue ribbons for breeders and young flock ram under one year, pen of three ram lambs and ewe one year and under two.

The American Suffolk Sheep Society presented special awards to Wilder Brothers for ram one year and under two, ewe-lamb-and-flock. Filer fireman honored

FILER — Ronald Rytting was named Fireman of the Month for August by the Filer Volunteer Fire Department.

Three fire alarms during the month were answered by the department. Aug. 11 an overturned cattle truck north of Nat-Soo-Pah was spilling diesel oil on the road and the Filer truck was used as a standby in case of fire.

Aug. 18 the department was called to a house fire on the Shoe Sole Ranch and were two miles from the ranch when notified they would not be needed. The estimated amount of damage was not known.

Aug. 25 the department responded to 215 Midway St., Filer, where a mattress was on fire in the back of a pickup truck. Owner of the pickup was unknown.

Hopeful scores Mao 'lies'

PIGEON FORGE, Tenn. — Tom Anderson, American Party candidate for president, said today, "It is appalling and reprehensible the way our President and press are eulogizing Mao Tse-tung, the all-time murderer in human history. Mao Tse-tung was guilty of more than 50 million murders."

"It is disgraceful that President Ford would praise such an arch criminal, calling his death 'tragic.' Not yet have I seen or heard an item or report in the so-called mass news media," Anderson said, "telling the truth about murderer Mao Tse-tung or his enslavement of a billion people."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are apt to be over-emotional today, and unless you are careful, you will feel you are being imposed upon. By going along easily with whatever arises you have some good happenings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care you go along with the ideas of kin and have more accord at home. You want to try new things today, but this is not a good time for such. Avoid one who does not really need you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use particular care in driving and in motion of all kinds and avoid possible danger. Try not to be critical of those who work with you. Show more devotion to family and you reap rewards.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't force any changes in monetary matters but if it is necessary to do so, act wisely. Find the right avenues through which you can add to present security. Try not to be extravagant.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your personal environment improved even if you have to forego pleasure for a while. Take time for improving health. Take a more optimistic outlook on life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have problems that seem insurmountable, but if you listen to a close family tie, you find the right answers.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful of what you say to friends or you could easily lose them now. You may not gain one who but another materializes that is better.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take no risks with your reputation or the respect of your community and then all works out fine for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget that new interest and carry through with present project which will now yield right benefits. Don't be preyed by some contact you have but are stupid when it is feasible.

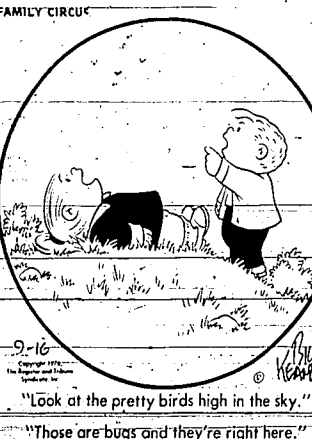

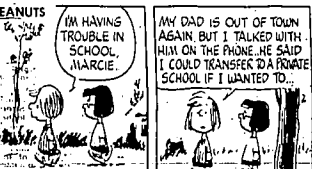

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use right methods in handling some annoying situation and it works out to your advantage. Be careful where credit is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A situation arises that seems annoying, but it can easily be to your benefit if you handle it wisely. Some civic work you do can also bring good results. Relax in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you do not forget to do some work that is important to handle right now. A co-worker may need some cheering up in order to be more cooperative. Be more objective for better results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find the right kind of amusement that will not cost you much or get you into trouble. Use tact in dealing with a loved one.

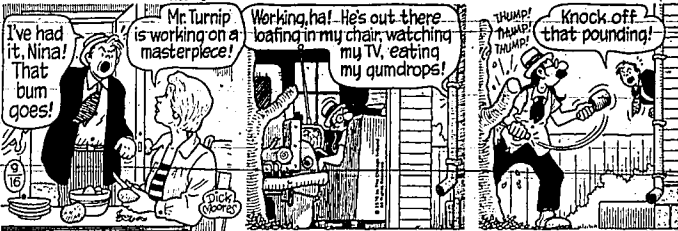

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be inclined to resort to temper tantrums when not getting his or her own way. This child will have to be taught early to reason more, to have more faith and to realize that tact is most important in dealing with others. Be sure to teach to work early in life in order to discipline the mind and to handle tasks before going off on pleasure trips.

what's what

L.M. Boyd

Among the numerous paintings of Peter Stuyvesant, some show the right leg missing, some the left leg missing. Which of the heroic Dutchman's legs actually was blown off by a Spanish cannonball? So inquires a customer. The right leg was the one that Stuyvesant lost. That leg, incidentally, was given a more flamboyant funeral with full military honors than was Stuyvesant himself upon his death.

The eyes of that seabird known as the gannet are set forward on its head aimed downward in such a manner naturally that it can keep a lookout for fish beneath it as it flies close to the waves.

In Denmark is a union whose members earn their living by doing nothing but making open-faced sandwiches.

FIRST LADIES

Q. "How many of our First Ladies had been married before they married the men who were to become presidents?"
A. Six: Mrs. George Washington, Mrs. Thomas Jefferson, Mrs. James Madison, Mrs. Andrew Jackson, Mrs. Warren Harding and Mrs. Gerald Ford.

The pollution people continue to talk about "one part per million," but nobody explains just how much one part per million is. It's equivalent to a single drop of vermilion in 80 fifths of gin. That's dry. Very dry.

A certain salesman who travels the nation carries with him for the purpose of his own peculiar humor a pair of towels monogrammed "His" and "To Whom It May Concern."

MEDICAL CHECKUP

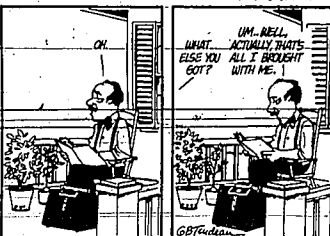

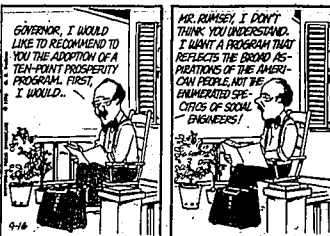

If the routine annual medical examination is such a dandy notion as the doctors would have us believe, why don't the doctors go to each other for health checkups? They don't, according to a pair of same, who have turned a little testy to their trade. Two-thirds of all the visits to the doctors' offices are made of those who are not sick.

A California insurance company offers another explanation of why we say "mind your p's and q's." Apprentice typewriters were so warned in the early days, he claims, because they frequently mixed up the two mirror-image letters in taking them out of their trays.

Shortest word I know containing the five vowels is "enough," which means "strenuous of mind and will." One more nominee to the Proper Job Club has to be Sgt. Elmer Law, Jr., of the Washington State Patrol. ... Thing about elephants, they can't turn their heads to see what's gaining on them, poor brutes.
